TWO-TO-ONE MARGIN . . .

Nixon Leader In 6-State Poll

Former Republican Vice President Richard Nixon piled up a two-to-one margin over President Johnson in a "Grassroots Ballotbox" poll of newspaper readers in six states stretching from Wisconsin to Montana.

Johnson ran third behind California Gov. Ronald Reagan, another Republican.

The President picked up only one vote in seven from the nearly 11,000 newspaper readers who participated in the poll, and only 45.6% of the votes cast for Democratic prospects.

The survey was taken by 15 Lee Enterprise Newspapers, including The Lincoln Star.

Other participants included six newspapers in Montana, four in Iowa, two in Wisconsin and one each in Illinois and Missouri.

The newspapers printed a grassroots ballot during the week of Nov. 7 on which their readers could express their presidential preference by mail.

Nixon was the leading Republican vote-getter in all six states and led Johnson in all states except Nebraska, where readers of The Star gave the President an 11-vote edge.

Sen. Robert Kennedy of New York ran a close second to Johnson, capturing 33.9% of the total Democratic vote. Kennedy topped Johnson among Democratic voters in Wisconsin.

Reagan ran second to Nixon among Republicans in all states except Wisconsin and Nebraska, whose newspaper readers named New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller as second choice.

Republican totals from all 15 newspapers: Nixon, 3,124 or 43.9%; Reagan, 1,590 or 22.3%; Rockefeller, 1,246 or 17.5%; Gov. George Romney of Michigan, 666 or 9.4%; Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois, 425 or 5.9%; Harold Stassen, 60 or one percent.

Democratic totals: Johnson 1,515 or 45.6%; Kennedy, 1,125 or 33.9%; former Alabama Gov. George Wallace, 525 or 15.9%; Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota, 104 or 3.1%; Sen. J. William Fulbright of Arkansas, 52 or 1.5%.

Total vote in the six states, including write-in choices, was 10,854.

Vote totals by states:

Wisconsin: Nixon, 894; Rockefeller, 489; Reagan, 447; Romney, 368; Kennedy, 361; Johnson, 296; Percy, 204; Wallace, 129; McCarthy, 67; Fulbright, 42; Stassen, 38.

Iowa: Nixon, 586; Reagan, 413; Rockefeller, 269; Johnson, 191; Kennedy, 150; Wallace, 129; Percy, 90; Romney, 88; McCarthy, 12; Stassen, 8; Fulbright, 3.

LBJ, MCNAMARA PART

Major Question Intrigues D.C.

. . . 2 Explanations Said Possible

© New York Times Service

By JAMES RESTON

Washington — The Capital is still puzzled about the Johnson-McNamara drama. The parting was such sweet sorrow that nobody here could quite believe the official secret. After all the official communiques and explanations, one question still intrigued the divided and suspicious political city.

Why did the President choose to act on McNamara's shy flirtation with the presidency of the World Bank, rather than on McNamara's much more fervent offer to stay on with Johnson to the end of the term?

Why change the leadership of the most complicated and controversial department in Washington a year before the presidential election of 1968? Why put a new man in the Pentagon, where even an old man cannot find his way in a year, less than twelve months before the vote?

The President didn't have to.

Clear In Finale

McNamara made clear in his finale that he was ready to go on. The bank wanted a successor, but its able president, George D. Woods, had agreed to stay on until the end of 1968, which happens to be shortly after the presidential election of 1968. So what was the rush? And why the odd procedure in which McNamara and Johnson never really agreed before the decision that the United States government was going to recommend McNamara's appointment?

There are two quite contradictory and fascinating explanations of this.

The first, which appeals to this conspiratorial town, especially in the poisonous mood of the moment, is that the President is dumping McNamara who is less of a danger to him than the Pentagon and Saigon generals who have differed with McNamara in the past and could easily differ with him with embarrassing political consequences during the presidential election campaign of 1968.

LBJ's Other Side

The other goes to the other side of Lyndon Johnson which is intensely human, rewards loyalty as the first rule of political life and recognizes the human limitations on an intense secretary of defense who is trying to ride herd on the Pentagon and deal with his rising company of congressional opponents at the same time.

The official version of the McNamara nomination for the presidency of the World Bank is that it had nothing to do with any differences between the President and McNamara or with any "Pentagon revolt" or disputes between McNamara and the military chiefs on the future conduct of the Vietnam war.

Rather, both the President and McNamara regard it as a natural move by the secretary of defense, after almost seven arduous years at the Pentagon, taken for personal rather than political reasons at this time because the bank wanted to choose a new chief executive before the end of this year.

April 18 Luncheon

Woods opened up the subject formally for the first time at a luncheon with McNamara April 18. The secretary said Wednesday Woods explained then that the directors of the bank were urging him to recommend a successor.

The secretary said he replied that he was interested in the subject of the development of the poor countries in general and, in any event, would not consider any other job so long as Johnson wished him to remain.

Later — McNamara thinks this was in May — he passed on Woods' suggestion to Johnson in order to avoid its being passed on by someone else. The President asked if the secretary was interested and got an affirmative answer.

No Specific Decision

There apparently was no occasion, however, when this general conversation came down to a specific decision between the President and McNamara.

When McNamara reached the Pentagon Wednesday morning, he was in a philosophic mood.

He said he had come to the Pentagon at first with some misgivings but had great satisfaction in his work and had acquired a sense of devotion and affection for both Presidents Johnson and Kennedy.

He had come here to serve his country and his president and nobody had asked him to compromise his deepest beliefs and nobody was asking him to do so now. Of course there were differences with the Joint Chiefs on some things but he knew of no "revolt" against him or any threats of resignations, or flagging of confidence between him and the President.

The President was equally complimentary about McNamara.

He said that apparently the World Bank wanted three names to pick from. This reminded him of the fellow in Texas who was asked for his first three choices for a judgeship. His first choice in this case was L. E. Jones, his second was for L. E. Jones and his third, L. E. Jones. That was the way he felt about McNamara and the bank job.

STEELE CITY OLDTIMERS . . . Bugbee, left, Manning and blacksmith shop.

History Cheap In Steele City

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Steele City—When you buy 219 years of history for $120 and somebody else foots the bill, that's more than a bargain.

Yet that's about what happened when three of Steele City's most picturesque buildings went over the auction block recently. Two sandstone showpieces of seven decades ago, a blacksmith shop and livery stable, joined the town's 1880 brick bank building as "mementoes of the past with a potential for tomorrow."

"Who knows how much interest might materialize once the three are restored and publicized," said Estaline Carpenter, a pusher of the project for the Jefferson County Historical Society. "The bank is the oldest building in one of this county's first settlements, and the three together should be a real side attraction off the proposed Great Plains Parkway."

The historical group was the beneficiary as four of its members bid on the old structures, then deeded them to the Society. A $45 contribution came from Dr. R. P. Luce, $25 each from C. J. Galbraith, Russell Troxel and Sheriff Frank Knocke.

Vestiges of a riverside community dating to 1873, the long vacant structures also are remnants of a booming business district of the 1920s. Population then was nearly triple the present 170, and at least five stores operated for each of the three now open.

"I can count up 31 businesses that I've seen leave since I moved here 43 years ago," said retired railroader Hubert Manning, one of two local men soliciting funds to re-roof the buildings. The other is longtime farmer Lewis Bugbee, born in the community 80 years ago and still one of its kingpins.

Saw It Built

Bugbee not only knew the blacksmiths who occupied the one old shop, but recalls seeing the stone hauled for its construction. Both the bank and livery stable closed over 50 years ago, but the late E. E. Hartgraves kept the smitty forge hot until eight years ago.

"They say the first banker skinned out of here even before I was born, taking a lot of homesteaders' money with him," said Bugbee, now an employe of Bud and Bill's Ready Mix. "It resumed as a bank for awhile, but most of the time it's been used as a residence."

An offshoot of Jenkin's Mill and Freeport, the Little Blue settlement was platted by Abner Baker and Robert Crinklow. Various successors to its "Western Sun," the first county newspaper, set up shop both in the bank and livery buildings.

Seeks Funds

Planning a 1968 campaign to sell voters on a .10 mill levy for historical preservations, president Louis Weber and his group would give high priority to the Steele City project. The hope is to restore the buildings and add enough equipment that they would be semi-museums.

A fourth oldster in the town, the 1882 Baptist Church, is the county's oldest church building retaining its basic original construction. Of a different stone than the others, it is currently used by the Knights of Pythias.

Mac To Work On '68 Budget

. . . WORLD BANK OFFERS HIM PRESIDENCY

Washington (AP) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara announced Wednesday night he plans to resign when work on the new military budget is complete to become president of the World Bank.

Within minutes, President Johnson followed up with a statement confirming McNamara's plans, praising his seven years in the job and declaring major defense policies are clearly defined for the next defense chief.

"The course of our participation in the war in Vietnam is firmly set; major defense policies are clearly defined," Johnson said without elaboration.

A White house source said it would be fair to assume that the President's aim was to counter speculation that McNamara's departure from the Pentagon might lead to a harder war line in Vietnam.

Shortly before McNamara went before television cameras to read his statement and the White House issued Johnson's, the executive directors of the World Bank voted unanimously to offer McNamara the presidency of the 107-nation lending agency.

Johnson said of McNamara "I shall miss him greatly as a member of my Cabinet, as one of my closest colleagues and as my valued friend."

The chief executive said that while no precise date has been fixed for McNamara's departure, "I have asked him to remain at least long enough into next year to complete the work on the military program and financial budget for fiscal year 1969."

That budget will be submitted to Congress in January.

McNamara, in a separate statement telling of his plans to take the $40,000-a-year post, also said no date had been set for his departure, but had agreed to remain long enough to complete work on the new defense budget.

Forms Available For Tax Penalty Refunds

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Lancaster County taxpayers whose tax penalty refunds were halted by action of the Legislature in the 1966 special session may now sign a renewal demand form available in the county assessor's office to receive their money.

According to Assessor Fritz Meyer, those qualifying taxpayers who have not previously filed a written demand for the refund of the unconstitutional penalties paid in 1962, 1963, or 1964, but who have made claim for refund by telephone, oral demand or by any other means prior to July 9, 1967, may now sign renewal demands for the refunds.

He said that the county is urging all qualifying taxpayers to file the renewal demand by Jan. 1, 1968, and the claims will be processed and checks mailed within a month's time.

The machinery for making the refunds was set up as a result of a ruling by Lancaster District Judge Bartlett Boyles in an action brought by Lancaster County, in behalf of the taxpayers whose refunds were halted by a special session of the Legislature in 1966.

Judge Boyles held that axpayers who did not make claim for the penalty refunds within 60 days after the Supreme Court's ruling are entitled to the refunds if claims were made within two years or before July 9, 1967.

In July, 1965, the Supreme Court held that penalties assessed against taxpayers for failure to file personal property tax returns or for omission of tangible or intangible property from the returns were unconstitutional.

The 1965 Legislature, after the Supreme Court's ruling, passed a law providing for refund of tax penalties upon filing a claim by the taxpayers within two years from the date of the court decision.

However, in a special session last year, the Legislature changed the time limit for filing refund claims from two years to 60 days resulting in some taxpayers being unable to claim their refunds.

After the enactment of the original bill allowing two years, then assessor Arthur Davis took steps to facilitate the refunds by sending out letters to taxpayers notifying them of the refunds to which they were entitled and enclosing a refund claim form to be completed and returned.

The letters were sent out to 21,212 taxpayers eligible for refunds in 1962 and 1963, and Davis took no further action on those due refunds for 1964 after the time limit change.

Up to that time, the county had paid taxpayers $29,547 in refunds on 1,335 of an estimated total of more than 3,000 claims for the three-year period.

An estimated 1,100 taxpayers are due the refunds for 1964 for a total potential amount, if written demands are filed, of $2,500.

Lancaster County Commissioners next Tuesday are expected to approve 115 claims totaling $1,615 for penalty refunds for 1963 which were processed by the assessor's office prior to the change in time, but had not reached the county board in time for approval and had been held pending the court ruling on whether the refunds could be made.

South Street Open To Traffic Again

South St. is open again, but the work is not finished.

Construction on the first phase — from 8th to 26th — of the widening and resurfacing project began in the middle of July this year and has been completed.

Contractors will undertake the second and final phase—from 26th to Memorial Drive—starting next spring. The total project cost is $797,875, exclusive of right-of-way acquisition.

The new look on South St. features four operating lanes over a route widened to arterial width, channelized intersections and intersection medians, separated in certain areas at the insistance of South St. merchants.

Merchants and homeowners alike find themselves much closer to the street than before. Also among the casualties are the curb-side trees which once lined South St.

Included in the finishing-up work yet undone:

—Constructing sidewalks and retaining walls in some areas.

—Exchanging temporary traffic signals for permanent ones at the 13th, 16th and 17th and South intersections.

—Extending 16th and 17th as a one-way pair all the way to South. The one-way streets now end at Euclid.

Burned Body Of Serviceman Found In Mexico

Tijuana, Mexico (AP) — The burned body of a U.S. Air Force man was found Wednesday in the hills south of here.

Police identified him as James L. Thornton, 24, of Anaheim, Calif., and said an empty can which had contained gasoline was found nearby. They theorized that he had poured the gasoline on himself and ignited it.

Thornton's wallet contained orders for him to report to San Francisco Dec. 6 for duty in Vietnam, officers said.

Tax, Spending Plan Presented

World News

Washington (AP) — The Johnson administration presented to Congress Wednesday a tax and spending plan it said could lower this year's budget deficit to $13.7 billion and insure confidence in the dollar, if enacted quickly.

Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler said approval this year of the plan, or one like it, is an "inescapable responsibility of the Congress" in the wake of British devaluation and last week's run on gold.

"Delay can be as damaging as defeat," he said in testimony before the House Ways and Means Committee.

Fowler renewed the administration's plea for the 10% surcharge on income taxes and stuck to the original effective dates, Oct. 1 for individuals and July 1 for corporations, both 1967.

The surcharge would be calculated to raise an extra $7.4 billion in extra revenue this year.

$4.1 Billion Cut

As part of the same package, however, he proposed in legislative form budget cuts of $4.1 billion during the current fiscal year which ends next June 30. This would be accomplished by a formula reducing the authority of government agencies to commit funds.

Fowler said it would not be feasible to collect through withholding from paychecks any of the additional individual taxes which would be due through December under the plan.

Collection would be made, he said, when taxpayers file their 1967 income tax returns next year. He said that for two-thirds of the taxpayers the surcharge would be reflected in smaller refunds rather than any additional payments.

Schultze, Martin

Strong support for the administration plan also came in testimony from Budget Director Charles L. Schultze and Chairman William McChesney Martin Jr. of the federal reserve Board.

Martin called the spending cuts meaningful but said he would be happier if more cuts were made.

Even before the hearing opened, the odds for adoption of a tax bill this year dropped virtually to zero when committee Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said there just isn't enough time left to get a bill through the House.

One Democratic supporter of increased taxes who declined to be quoted by name said after Fowler's testimony that the administration is setting up the tax-spending package for approval next year.

'Can't See How'

But Rep. James A. Burke, D-Mass., a committee member, said, "I don't see how the committee can wait until next year to decide the issue. We have to give it very serious consideration now."

Rep. James W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, senior Republican member of the committee, said: "We'll have to wait and see."

There was no immediate reaction from Mills.

Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., a committee member, said he favors the surcharge now even more than he did Oct. 3 when the committee shelved the surcharge over his objections and insisted on a plan to cut spending.

The Reply

Fowler said the plan submitted Wednesday is the administration's response to that request.

"The eyes of the world are on this Congress," Fowler said. "There is much at stake. Now the issue is squarely up to you."

When President Johnson submitted the surcharge plan Aug. 3, he estimated the potential budget deficit at $29 billion, but Fowler spoke of a maximum $25 billion deficit in his testimony.

$22.4 Billion Now

In response to questions, Schultze said as things now stand — with no tax increase and in absence of the new spending plan — the deficit would be $22.4 billion, partly because the Vietnam war is expected to cost less than anticipated.

Johnson projected an increase in the cost of Vietnam of up to $4 billion but Schultze said that has now been reduced to $2 billion.

Cyprus Agreement Reached

Athens, Greece (AP)—The Atlantic Alliance's trouble shooter in the Cyprus crisis said Wednesday night: "Our efforts for peace met with success."

Diplomatic sources said Greece and Turkey were preparing to announce jointly the end of their current conflicts over the long-troubled eastern Mediterranean island.

Manlio Brosio, secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, made his announcement to reporters after a session at the Greek foreign ministry. He added: "I am confident we are going to keep the peace."

Diplomatic quarters said the agreement was a triumph for the work of Brosio and Cyrus R. Vance, President Johnson's special envoy.

Vance emerged early Thursday from nearly seven hours of showdown talks with Cyprus President Archbishop Makarios and announced he was flying back immediately to Athens.

Both were smiling after a round of marathon contacts here since early Wednesday morning and guarded optimism prevailed.

The agreement is generally believed to call for Turkey to immediately drop its warlike posture and for Greece to withdraw some 8,000 to 12,000 Greek soldiers from Cyprus. This is clandestine force far above the 950 allowed by the Zurich Treaty of 1959 setting up the eastern Mediterranean island of Cyprus as an independent republic.

Makarios opposed the withdrawal of Greek troops unless all the Turkish troops were recalled. But Turkey insisted its garrison on Cyprus is needed to protect the Turkish Cypriot minority.

Crack Unit From South Victorious

Saigon (AP) — Fierce new fighting erupted Wednesday in the battle-ravaged Dak To sector of South Vietnam's central highlands. South Vietnamese paratroopers reported killing 130 North Vietnamese army regulars in a six-hour battle.

A Vietnamese spokesman said the paratroopers, the same crack units that wrested Hill 1416 from the North Vietnamese earlier this month, took only light casualties in the encounter.

The Dak To sector had been relatively quiet since last Thursday when U.S. infantrymen captured the heights of Hill 875.

South Vietnamese military headquarters also reported the Communists shelled three positions near Bu Dop on Wednesday night less than 12 hours after brisk fighting in the area.

Over North Vietnam, northeast monsoons continued to restrict U.S. air strikes. Nearly all of Wednesday's strikes were confined to the southern half of North Vietnam stretching from south of Hanoi to the 17th parallel.

The U.S. Navy said in a delayed report that one of its river patrol boats intercepted a large motorized sampan Tuesday 84 miles southwest of Saigon after an exchange of fire, seizing 150 pounds of antibiotics, along with small arms ammunition.

British Treasury Minister Resigns; Roy Jenkins Named

© New York Times Service

London—In a major shift of power within the Labor government, and a move toward new policies, Roy Jenkins Wednesday became Britain's chancellor of the exchequer.

He replaced James Callaghan, whose three-year struggle to maintain the value of the pound ended in devaluation. Callaghan resigned and shifted to Jenkin's former post as home secretary, in charge of police and other internal affairs.

Jenkins, 47, has long been known to favor a more expansionist economic policy, with greater incentives for individual enterprise. He urged devaluation in the crisis of July, 1966, when the cabinet chose instead to squeeze the economy into a long period of deflation.

No. 2 Office

His advance to what is now the second most important office in government means a significant gain for the young intellectual moderates in the Labor Party, those less wedded to traditional socialism.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson, in making the appointment, put at his right hand a man whom many have seen as his eventual rival for the Labor leadership. For this reason many observers had questioned Jenkins' chances for the key economic job.

Callaghan

Jenkins

The prime minister's decision reflects the urgent need for restoring national and party morale in the post-devaluation days. Commentators quickly priaised him Wednesday for choosing a chancellor who is not a personal or political firend.

Trade Seals

Callaghan and Jenkins exchanged their seals of office at a meeting of Queen Elizabeth II with her Privy Council. Without further formality they immediately took over their new jobs.

For Callaghan the end of the chancellorship was a personal sorrow. He resigned, as he told Wilson in a "Dear Harold" letter, because he had to go back on "pledges" against devaluation that he had given many foreign countries.

The letter was actually written the day the government devalued, Nov. 18. At the time, Callaghan apparently intended to return to the back benches in the House of Commons, without office.

Wins Praise

But the dignity of his performance in the house last week won him high priase, and some local commentators began urging him as an immediate alternative to Wilson. He then agreed to take another office.

Nebraska Leading Area In Hog Cholera Project

. . . Schlaphoff Tells Nebraska Farmers Union

Norfolk (AP)—Nebraska Agriculture Director Elmer Schlaphoff told delegates to the Nebraska Farmers Union state convention Wednesday that Nebraska is "a few months ahead of all its neighboring states in the field of hog cholera eradication."

He said Nebraska was the first to go off the vaccination program entirely and substitute an indemnity program. Since the change was made Oct. 20, he said three cases of hog cholera have been reported in the Scottsbluff area, and investigation is now under way.

With reference to agriculture's future Schlaphoff had this to say: "We can't just look at our farms and see what is happening. We have to look at our test tubes, at agronomy labs and research centers, and you can't look very long without getting excited about the future of Nebraska."

Praises Co-Operation

Schlaphoff said changing of the tax base in Nebraska was probably the most significant development, in the minds of many people. He said the cooperation of such farm groups as the Farmers Union and the Farm Bureau had made the change possible, and while the benefits may not yet be seen, they will be seen and Nebraska will be moving ahead in many fields.

Tony Dechant of Denver, national president, was the Wednesday night banquet speaker.

Dechant told the group the independent farmer in Nebraska faces oblivion unless the movement of huge non-farm corporations into agriculture is halted.

He urged members to launch a fight in the Nebraska Legislature to get a law banning farming by non-farm corporations. He said such a law would not interfere with the right of farmers to incorporate for tax purposes.

He said corporation farming is now being fought in Oklahoma, Kansas and North Dakota, and that the Farmers Union "intends to make it the main agricultural issue at state level elections next year by working through church groups from the community to the national level."

Elections will be held Thursday.

$20,000 Worth Of Hogs Destroyed, Says Howe

More than $20,000 worth of hogs have had to be destroyed since Nebraska entered Phase III of the national hog cholera eradication program Oct. 20, according to E. Crosby Howe, University of Nebraska Extension veterinarian.

Part of the reason for the outbreaks on two farms near Scottsbluff and one near Hemingford was poor mnagement, he said.

There were 1,319 animals in the herds. Of these, 897 could be salvaged through slaughter and 422 were destroyed.

The state will pay $10,026 of the $20,052.02 indemnity cost, Dr. S. H. Flora, state veterinarian, told Howe.

In each case the outbreak occurred following the addition of small numbers of newly purchased pigs to a herd on the farm, Howe said.

The fact that the disease occurred in newly purchased pigs points up the need to maintain newly purchased pigs or breeding swine in complete isolation from any other hogs on the premises, he pointed out.

Isolation of newly purchased animals has long been recommended as a disease prevention measure, Howe explained. The reason that pigs or other animals should be kept in isolation when being returned to the farm from shows or when newly purchased is that these animals may have been exposed to some disease, but are not yet showing symptoms, he said.

"This is the main reason that pigs inspected by a veterinarian at a market may become sick a few days after reaching their new home," he added.

"Another problem is that stress of hauling, change of quarters and feed may trigger an infection that is already present in the pigs.

"Now if these new arrivals become sick after being placed with other pigs, it is quite probable that the sickness will spread to the other hogs."

Tiemann's Staff Organized Differently, Yeutter Explains

Omaha (AP) — Governor Norbert Tiemann's administrative executive assistant has responded to criticism of the state's chief executive.

Speaking to a service club, Dr. Clayton Yeutter said the reason the governor's "staff is larger is because we're organized differently. Whereas (former) Gov. Frank Morrison allowed state agencies considerable autonomy, we try to coordinate each department. We're trying to run the government of Nebraska the way the governor wants it run."

Dr. Yeutter said the total state budget, including federal and state funds, has risen about 28% since 1965. He said increases in state spending came in three areas which were thought to be needed: education, public institutions and economic development.

He defended the income-sales tax, saying the system has "an inherent flexibility" that permits voters to choose what degree of "progressivity" or "regressivity" they want. He called the present tax slightly progressive, meaning it calls for a heavier burden to be borne by higher income groups.

Seaton Gets Post On Nebraska For Nixon Committee

Hastings (UPI)—Fred Seaton, Hastings publisher and former secretary of interior under President Eisenhower, has been named to the Nebraska Nixon for President Committee, according to announcement made Wednesday by George Cook, Nebraska chairman for the Nixon organization.

Seaton is also a member of the national six man advisory committee for the Nixon organization.

In accepting the appointment to the committee, Seaton said he was confident Nixon will receive enthusiastic support in the Nebraska May 14 primary.

Thomas J. Skutt, Omaha attorney who recently was named state finance chairman for the Nixon organization, was also appointed to the state committee, Cook added.

Lewellen Man Files $1 Million Suit For Injuries

Omaha (AP) — Keith Bradley, 37, Lewellen, Neb., has filed a suit for one million dollars in Federal District Court as the result of a building accident in Omaha which he said left him permanently crippled.

Bradley named as defendant the Iowa Sheet Metal Contractor of Des Moines doing business as the Nebraska Sheet Metal and Roof Contractors.

He charged that in July, 1966, machinery pallets were stacked on a roof in such a manner that they concealed a hole and he fell into the hole while working on the roof.

West Promotion Group Seeking WNUCC Hearing

Alliance (AP)—A group aimed at promoting western Nebraska is seeking a hearing before the Western Nebraska United Chambers of Commerce at its annual meeting in Alliance in January.

Panhandle Partners of Progress held its second meeting and chose Stan Juelfs of Kimball as temporary chairman, and named Ed Cole of Sidney as temporary secretary.

In discussion at the Partners' meeting, speakers said it was not necessary to duplicate services, as was being done by the new group and the Chambers organization.

A spokesman said the Partners' group hopes to join Panhandle cities and counties and possibly go as far as having their own government.

Way To Cut Births

New Delhi (AP) — India's minister of state for family planning, Dr. Sripati Chandrasekhar, told a university symposium human fertility in this country could be reduced 20% by raising the female age of consent to 19 from the present 14.

Bloodmobile's Driver Gone After Wreck

McCool Junction (UPI) — Authorities Wednesday night were fearful that the driver of a wrecked Omaha bloodmobile might have made a vain try at walking for help.

Still unheard from was Raymond B. Cushing, 46, Omaha.

The Red Cross bloodmobile he was driving was found overturned on U.S. 81, some two miles north of McCool Junction. York County sheriff's officers and the Nebraska State Patrol were continuing the search.

State Trooper Harold Renken said the truck was found about 1 a.m. Wednesday at the bottom of a ravine off the highway. The bloodmobile, on a routine run between Stromsburg and Red Cloud, carried equipment for drawing blood but no blood.

Cushing's wife told investigators she drove her husband to work about 6 a.m. Tuesday. "We seem to think that he left the truck to go for help but never made it," she said.

Cushing, a native of Omaha, has been driving for the Red Cross since February.

Rites At Fremont For Mrs. Becker, Accident Victim

Fremont—Funeral services for Mrs. Albert C. (Harriett) Becker, 53, killed Monday in a hunting accident near Alliance, will be at 1 p.m. Thursday at the First Congregational Church in Fremont.

Box Butte County Attorney Laurice Margheim said Mrs. Becker was killed when a charge from a 12-gauge shotgun struck her in the head.

The county attorney quoted her husband, the Rev. Mr. Becker, as saying his wife stumbled and as he reached to help her his weapon discharged accidentally.

Born at Stromsburg, Mrs. Becker was engaged in social and religious work in Lincoln at the time of her marriage in 1938. Since their marriage, the Rev. Mr. Becker has served Congregational pastorates at Brule, Cambridge, Hastings, Fremont and is currently pastor of the Plymouth Congregational Church at Scottsbluff.

Surviving in addition to her husband are sons, Dr. Lawrence C. and Michael A. of Virginia; daughter, Mrs. Charles Bishop of Lawrence, Kan.; brother, E. Clifford Toren of Chicago, and a sister, Mrs. David Stavland of Lincoln.

He has given safety demonstrations in fire prevention, gun safety and electrical repair and improved his farm's safety conditions.

In addition, he has won county medals in safety, photography, conservation and achievement. He also earned two purple ribbons for State Fair safety demonstrations and won a trip to the National Safety Congress.

Honors Accorded Three County Centennial Units

Three County Centennial Committees were honored Wednesday night by the Centennial Native Grass Committee for their outstanding contributions toward the Nebraska Centennial.

The awards were presented to Butler County, Dodge County and the Tri-County (Keya Paha, Brown and Rock) Centennial Committees at a special honors banquet held in Lincoln.

Accomplishments that brought the honors included:

Butler County — For encouraging 71 Butler County farmers to convert 1,500 acres of cropland to pastureland by seeding a centennial native grass mixture and for improving land use.

Tri-County — For creating an awareness of the need for better grassland management and the establishment of a management program on many ranches throughout the Tri-County area.

Dodge County — For establishing three nature trails and two native grass demonstration plots to help create an awareness of the economic importance of native grass.

One of the major accomplishments of the Dodge County group was the establishment of a Native Plant Museum at Dead Timber State Park. The park contains a seven-acre centennial grove and a two-acre native plants area for nature studies. Hundreds of school children have had the opportunity to view the plant museum.

In describing the honors, Warren Fairchild of Lincoln, the chairman of the State's Native Grass Centennial Committee, noted that native grass seeding and management was to receive special emphasis during the centennial observance period of 1964 to 1967.

"With such outstanding cooperation, our state committee efforts have been made extremely worthwhile," Fairchild explained.

Vavaks Cited

A special award was presented to Mr. and Mrs. William T. Vavak of Mead for their assistance in developing a historical grassland display.

Centennial Commission director, Don Shriner, also presented appreciation certificates to each member of the Centennial Native Grass Committee. Shriner noted that the committee did an outstanding job in making Nebraska aware of the historical and economic significance of grass in the settlement and development of the state. He also added, "The program also has established a good foundation for the future and will have many lasting benefits."

The Nebraska Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts sponsored the awards banquet.

EVENTS
IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The Board of Education faced one of those knotty kinds of problems this week for which there really is no answer. The board decided to allow the distribution to students of a tooth-brushing kit, a service provided by the Lincoln District Dental Society.

This was done despite the fact that the board has a standing policy against the distribution to students of any commercial products. While the brushing kit is a commercial product, containing a brand name toothpaste and brush, it is also a public health measure.

Apparently, the board considered the health aspects more important than the commercial aspects. It is hard to take issue with the board in the matter, although it will undoubtedly be criticized by some people.

The toothpaste is one of the leading fluoride varieties, which is quite natural coming from the Lincoln Dental Society. The society has long been a proponent of fluoridation and looks at fluoridated toothpaste as better than nothing at all.

What it really wants is fluoridated water, a more effective and more universal means of making the benefits of this chemical available to all. Thus, the board will probably field some complaints from the opponents of fluoridation and from others who might want to distribute various things to the school children.

In case you wonder why the board is against such practices, there are at least two answers. One is that too much distribution among the children would tend to disrupt the school schedule.

Secondly, anything the children bring home is considered by most parents to be good. The thought is that the board would not allow anything inferior to be distributed. Thus, in distributing things through the children, the board tends to become a sort of "Good Housekeeping Seal of Approval" at the local level.

Of course, the distributor runs some risks in all this. The experience of most parents has been that school children are rather notorious carriers. What is given them at school to take home may or may never reach its destination.

In the case of the dental kits, the board is not endorsing fluoridation. If it is endorsing anything, it is simply good dental hygiene and that is a pretty safe position to be in.

There may be opponents to fluoridation, but there are not many left who don't believe in good dental practices. It is simply a matter of health, and good health is pretty universally accepted.

The dentists, of course, are not so naive as to fail to see the value of distributing fluoridated toothpaste. The practice does tend to break down public fears and anxieties over fluoridation and it is fluoride in the water that the dentists hope to have approved some day by the voters of Lincoln.

This week's board meeting also demonstrated some of the high cost of education that people seldom think about. The board approved a junior and senior high school tuition rate of $749 a year for non-residents of the Lincoln system.

For the educable mentally handicapped, the rate is $1,498; for the accoustically handicapped, it is $1,428; and for the orthopedically handicapped, $2,526. These are all tuition rates for non-resident students.

But what this means is that the school system is providing this education for the residents of its district. The figures tell you that it costs a lot to educate children in the standard classroom situation and a lot more in many of the areas of special education.

And in case you are wondering, Lincoln provides some of the best special education facilities and programs that can be found throughout the nation.

Mouth-To-Mouth Resuscitation

Quality In Mental Care

Discussion of the possibility of closing the Norfolk State Mental Hospital has demonstrated a planned shift in Nebraska from custodial care of patients. Now, the emphasis will be placed on a high degree of professionalism and more extensive use of outpatient operations.

Norfolk is endangered simply because we have three such institutions in the state. This hurts because the present state administration is aiming at quality through concentration of facilities. In other words, rather than three mediocre hospitals, the administration would rather have two outstanding ones.

All of this is not concluded, of course, and Norfolk could remain open for a long time to come. But Norfolk aside, it is hoped that Gov. Norbert Tiemann sticks with his plan to upgrade mental health care in the state.

This will involve greater consultative use of the Nebraska Psychiatric Institute in Omaha and more use of mental health clinics. Through these clinics, some people with mental problems will be able to lead a useful life in society, obtaining only the help they need on an occasional basis from the clinics.

This, of course, is the trend across the nation and Nebraska was even a pioneer in the effort. But in recent years we have slipped and Tiemann's plan is to regain the lost ground. This is done by accepting mental illness for what it is, often a curable illness, and planning institutionalization only when it is needed rather than as the only thing available.

The 'Lazy, Futile, Arrogant' Kids

An article in Sunday's paper took apart the current generation of parents as "namby-pamby milquetoasts" for tolerating a younger generation that is (according to the writer) lazy, futile, uninventive, arrogant, sneaky, stupid and ungrateful.

There may be some truth in the first charge, that parents nowadays are too milquetoastish. It is true that many parents are afraid of their children, afraid to reprimand them. Too many parents read books on child-raising when they should be clobbering their little darlings (why not hit 'em with the book, by the way?). To these parents we can only extend sympathy — and point out that quickly establishing who is boss is the shortest and best path to happy parent-child relationships.

As for the younger generation's laziness, stupidity, etc., we think the writer was all wet. Lazy? Then what accounts for the success of the Peace Corps? Stupid? Try to help your seventh-grader with his homework. Ungrateful? Look at the thousands of kids engaged in church work, in money-raising projects for the underprivileged. These kids are helping to spread the affluent society.

We can only wonder what prompted the writer to compose such a blanket statement about the younger generation. It has its share of lazy, sneaky, stupid and arrogant ones, of course. But there is no evidence to suggest that this is a trend or that there has been a shift in human nature from the older generation to the younger generation.

Sunday's diatribe is the stuff of which generation gaps are made.

Saturday Cartoons Have Gone Spooky

NEW YORK—All mothers are busy. All children love cartoons. Busy mothers plus cartooned-in kids adds up to a television bonanza for the networks on Saturday mornings.

It also adds up, especially for young children, to nightmares.

One problem facing today's mothers is that many of them are so busy making beds and cleaning closets, they are still unaware that last season's relatively harmless cartoons — oh, you gentle Mighty Mouse!—have been replaced, so suddenly, with a futuristic form of villainy.

A mother can be working in the bedroom when she hears a voice yelling, "Kill! Kill!" from the TV set. By the time she's rushed into the living room, seen the action on the screen and beheld her children's saucer eyes, turning off the set is too late. The damage is already done.

A newsletter titled "The Viewer," put out by the National Audience Board, Inc., (representing a cross-section of impartial adult viewers) recently assessed the Saturday cartoon fare.

"Johnny Quest": A boy whose father is an explorer-adventurer is led into some bizarre situations; it would have been better if his father had left him home. Likely to give young viewers nightmares.

"Samson and Goliath": Prehistoric weirdities; boy and giant battle ice monsters, etc.

"The Lone Ranger": Weird monsters and situations, psychologically warped supervillains. In sharp contrast to the three-a-week radio serial of the 30s and movie serials of the 40s, this Lone Ranger is pitted against the warped and weird.

"Space Ghost": Concentrates heavily on the sinister and weird. The activities are almost identical to those in interspersed commercials for "Green Ghost" and other do-it-yourself monster kits with which the cartoon shows abound. Drives the message of weirdness a little too deep.

"Superman": It's the familiar Clark Kent-Superman character, with the bizarre overtones of other cartoons in this genre.

"Aquaman": It's superman underwater.

The newsletter lists several other shows as less harmful for the simple reason that—though the characters and events may be somewhat sinister — comic relief holds down the horrors and helps keep a child from taking them too seriously. In this category are "King Kong," "Moby Dick," "Super President," "Shazzan!", "The Herculoids," "Spider Man," and "Space Cadet."

Are there any cartoons that "The Viewer" really likes? There are a few . . .

"Secret Squirrel": Generally non-violent, and some of the best genuine comedy to be found in the cartoon block.

"Atom Ant": A genuinely funny takeoff on Superman.

"Cool McCool": Inventive. In devising McCool, the creator has presented a nonhero superhero with whom people, in addition to children, can readily identify.

"The Beatles": An animated spoof of the Beatles (who often spoof themselves in live form, too); an engaging show.

As a nightmare preventive, it is suggested that mothers watch what their kids are watching.

DREW PEARSON
Military Intelligence Experts Do Not Agree On Infiltration Of Communists To The South

WASHINGTON — Behind the cautious optimism expressed by General William Westmoreland in his public reports on the progress of the Vietnam war, there has been a smoldering dispute between his headquarters and the Pentagon over intelligence estimates.

Caught in the middle was Maj. Gen. Joseph Alexander McChristian, Westmoreland's former intelligence chief, who has now been transferred from Saigon to Fort Hood, Texas.

McChristian's estimates of communist infiltration and recruitment were a constant source of annoyance to Secretary of Defense McNamara, who thought they were higher than they ought to be. He suspected the estimates might even have been deliberately inflated to justify Westmoreland's repeated requests for more manpower.

McNamara was anxious to avoid calling up the reserves or increasing the draft calls; therefore, he preferred to believe lower estimates of enemy strength. The Air Force also didn't like McChristian's figures, which implied that the bombing was hardly slowing down the infiltration.

Westmoreland, however, had a soldier's reluctance to underestimate enemy strength. It is always safer, he knew, to accept the maximum estimates.

Even at best, keeping watch on Viet Cong movements is extremely difficult. Trail watchers and sensory devices are used to measure the movement over the infiltration routes. But the Viet Cong can move an entire division through the defense jungle under the noses of our observers, who might not be able to detect any sign of a mass movement that passes within 1,500 yards of them.

Captured documents and prisoners also don't always give an accurate idea of enemy infiltration. North Vietnamese units, for example, often change their identification three or four times before they reach their assigned combat area in South Vietnam. Most of the prisoners are dull privates who can't keep up with all the changes.

Before the presence of a North Vietnamese unit is accepted as "confirmed," it must be reported by two independent sources. Thus, the infiltration of only a few hundred men is officially "confirmed" each month.

Westmoreland is obliged to rely upon estimates, based largely upon the count from our observation teams and electronic detectors. Intelligence specialists, who worked with McChristian, have told this column that his estimates were conservative. He insisted upon hard information and would never resort to guesswork in preparing his estimates. Privately, these specialists believe more North Vietnamese managed to infiltrate into the South than he ever counted.

Yet his infiltration estimates ranged around 10,000 a month in 1966, reached as high as 14,000 in June, 1966. He also estimated the Viet Cong recruitment in the South at around 7,500 a month.

There was subtle pressure on McChristian from the Pentagon to reduce his estimates, which he refused to do. He took more care, however, to back up his estimates with hard intelligence.

It is true that the number of "confirmed" infiltrators has dropped dramatically since 1966. One reason, however, is that North Vietnam has been sending down individual replacements rather than units.

Yet the "confirmed" rate is one of the factors that go into figuring the estimates. With McChristion in Texas, the "confirmed" countdown and the captured enemy documents which tell of increased problems, infiltration estimates have dropped to 5,000 to 6,000 a month. The Viet Cong recruitment rate is also estimated around 3,600 a month, about half McChristian's figures.

LA VERNA HASSLER
Patchwork Prairie Country

I always find it difficult to think of Christmas before the last of the turkey hash and thoughts of the Pilgrims have vanished from my mind. In fact, long before Thanksgiving, Santa is displayed in the shopping centers. I am confused as to why reindeer should be pulling his sled . . . It would seem to be more appropriate if turkeys winged him across the sky in his pre-Thanksgiving appearance.

Instead of the toys in his sled, how about heaping pumpkins and squash in their place? Autumn leaves fluttering earthward would seem much more natural than big, feathery snowflakes.

The narcissus I planted six weeks ago are blooming now and lend a spring atmosphere to the living room. The sweet flowery scent drifts across the room and lingers where it falls. The hyacinths and tulips do not force so quickly. They are setting roots and will not begin to send leaves and buds pushing through the soil for several weeks. When the January winds blow sharp and cold, I will again enjoy a bit of spring within the confines of my house.

Problems, problems and more problems seem to plague farmers this fall. In our local area, corn harvest has been hampered by lack of dryers. Elevators have not been taking corn for drying as the milo harvest needed all drying facilities available. The Farmer is running our dryer day and night for a neighbor who has many bushels of corn yet unharvested in the fields. Slowly the elevators are accepting more corn but this does not remedy the trouble as there are bushels and bushels of corn that is not drying as it should in the fields. Corn cannot be stored until it is dried. This year it all must be given the drying time.

How dull our orchard looks now. Every leaf has fallen from the trees. It's a sober, lifeless looking group of trees. I saw a squirrel leap among the branches of the tallest pear tree. That has been the only activity I have noticed. I am waiting for a cover of snow to drape the branches. They will not look so bleak and bare with ermine capes.

It is difficult to realize so short a time ago the birds were nesting in these same branches and song filled the summer breeze. The cats prowled stealthily through the orchard to catch an unsuspecting young bird. All was throbbing with vibrant life. Now looking through the trees, I would never believe spring would return had I not seen the awakening before.

I know next year's buds are tightly curled within a protective covering and tender leaves hold promise within their shells. I know, too, there are many small insects hidden beneath the bark waiting for the first tiny apple or peach to appear. Perhaps they are having delightful dreams of their first bite into the fruit. Yes, I have faith the orchard will burst into bloom again and all the bug life will burst into activity. We will have another "battle of the bugs" coming up . . . we always have.

Digging a big rose bush has taken me many hours of work. For twenty years it has been growing in our front yard. I set a small plant into the ground that an elderly lady gave me. At the time she said it needed little care and would bloom every year. She spoke the truth. Every June it bloomed, including last June, and I never sprayed it once for blight or insects. Perhaps it is what many think of when they speak of old-fashioned roses.

What pleasure I have had from this rose but, alas, it has grown out of its bounds with many of the old stalks dying in the center area. I decided to dig the huge plant. But strange as it may seem, I cannot throw the many young shoots sprouting from the base of the plant away and forget this faithful bloomer.

I selected the sturdiest shoots, cut them back and set them in the back yard. I do hope they grow. I do not like to think of another June without the fragrant, full blown roses.

Aren't people funny sometimes?

NATO Countries Preparing To Meet

WASHINGTON — Next month the foreign ministers of the NATO countries will meet to go through their semiannual ritual of consultation. They will hold their meeting for the first time in the new NATO headquarters in Brussels, built at a cost of $10 million, one-fourth paid for by the United States, with France a saboteur at the conference table, trying to wreck America's gold position.

As customary, the advance word here is that this will be a quiet meeting between amiable friends. But two items, one on the agenda and the other at the very least a loud offstage noise, will put in sharp perspective NATO's limitations. A military alliance hastily created out of fear of a Russian invasion of Western Europe, later proved to be for the most part imaginary, NATO is searching for other reasons for being.

The item on the agenda—perhaps the principal item—is the report of a study group headed by Belgian Foreign Minister Pierre Harmel. This grows out of the demand of European members at the last council meeting for a political role for NATO. Since the study was started, America's partners in Europe have been shocked at the announcement by the United States, without any prior consultation, of the decision to build a thin anti-ballistic missile system.

That shock could be translated into stern language. The question at this late date, when the military has been so dominant for so long, is whether NATO can be transformed.

The offstage noise will be raised over what stand NATO should take, if any, on the military dictatorship in Greece. NATO planes, tanks, guns and plans were turned loose by the colonels to overthrow the government in Athens. Denmark and Norway feel so strongly that the question of the status of Greece may even be formally considered by the council, although this is unlikely.

The Greek tragedy is an acute embarrassment, suggesting that the whole concept of a military alliance extended far beyond the shores of the North Atlantic, with the United States as the principal defender, supplier and prop, is a dubious one. Washington is shouldered with the responsibility for a harsh military regime now putting on mass show trials in which prominent Greek citizens are accused of plotting out of communist sympathy to bring down the duly elected government and the king.

The record of the fears that brought NATO into being is reported with the austere voice of reason in George F. Kennan's remarkable "Memoirs 1929-1950."

While supporting the 1947 proposal for aid to Greece, he opposed the universal sweep of President Truman's declaration of United States support for "free peoples who are resisting subjugation by armed minorities or by outside pressures." He also spoke out against rearming West Germany.

In Kennan's view, this seemed to commit America to the role of policeman wherever an internal communist threat might be found.

Similarly, he believed it was essential to oppose the aggression of communist North Korea against South Korea with American force. But he was convinced that an invasion by the American-United Nations force beyond the 38th parallel would surely bring intervention by China, or the Soviet Union, or both. With the military riding high in both Germany and Japan, his advice went unheeded and American troops suffered one of the worst defeats on record as Chinese hordes poured down from the North.

OFF THE RECORD — By Ed. Reed

"Bob, where's your pioneer spirit? So the power lines are down, can't you just this once brush your teeth manually and shave with a safety razor?"

Bishop: U.S. In Serious Trouble

Bishop Kenneth Copeland, reporting on a three-month world tour, says America is in serious trouble around the world, and "there are no simple prescriptions for our maladies."

Bishop Copeland spoke on his impressions, after visiting Korea, Japan, Okinawa, Hong Kong, Philippines, India, Pakistan, Iran, Turkey, Israel, Lebanon, and Greece, before a Wesleyan University convocation Wednesday.

The experiences he witnessed on the trip alternately "tore at my heart in some cases, stirred my anger in other instances, showed my own prejudices at times and, I sincerely trust, excited my hope in the main," the Nebraska Methodist leader said.

"Today's troubles are more intense, time is shorter, the world is smaller and technology has brought more instruments of destruction into our hands," the bishop said in outlining the dangers that face the world.

In Korea, he said, the trouble ic Communist infiltration. In the Middle East, the trouble is a struggle that could well destroy both the Arab and the Jew. And he said, we cannot avoid the confession that we are in serious trouble in the U.S., where we "have witnessed the worthy motives of revolution become entangled in unworthy methods."

No Easy Solution

He cited the Middle East situation as illustrating his point that there are no easy solutions.

"The problems are deeply rooted in both history and religion."

While noting the suffering of the Jews, he also pointed out that "we must remain both sympathetic and objective because the Christians have suffered also."

He quoted one Christian leader in Old Jerusalem as saying: "If the present conditions prevail, there will be no Christian Church in this part of the world in 10 years."

The situation is also hampered by emotionalism, economics and the problem of refugees, he added.

Other Areas

In other areas, the problems are hunger, disease, population explosion, illiteracy and human relations, according to Bishop Copeland.

The situation in the East, he said, is not a side-by-side relationship between people, but one of "I am over you, or under you. If I am over you, I will do my utmost to protect that position. If I am under you, I will rebel and revolt and try to destroy you."

However, he held out hope, in fact said, a realistic hope must be found that can give us our sense of direction and establish landmarks of identity.

These directions he outlined as an effort to find a devotion that draws us together, with the alternative being a danger which drives us together.

Must Lead

He said the university community must lead in a qualitative leap into the future; one of responsibility wherein both freedom and fidelity will be accepted side-by-side.

Such a leap has already begun, in his view.

He noted the work of the World Council of Churches in resettling thousands of refugees, the work of Christian missionaries, and other persons.

Such people "are not storming any buildings; they are not thrusting the stench of four-letter words in the faces of others; they are trying simply and unobtrusively to translate the instruments of war into the implements of peace and to fulfill the words of the Lord."

"In this direction, and in this direction alone, lies peace," the bishop said.

Meyer Clarifies Certificate Of Pendency Law

Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer held in an opinion Wednesday that certificates of pendency filed in county courts must be a permanent and publicized record.

Furnas County Atty. Eric B. Eisenhart asked the attorney general's office if the word "filing" is synonymous with "recording" in the certificate of pendency bill passed by the 1967 legislature.

The opinion was written by Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard H. Williams and approved by Meyer.

The opinion also said the cost of registering deeds is $2 for the first 200 words and three cents for each 10 words thereafter or $1.50 per page if a photographic process is used.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Hubby's Sporty Attire Draws Fire

By ROBERT PETERSON

Q. — "I've got a closet full of tweedy sport coats and slacks, in colors ranging from emerald green to turkey red. I love colors and hate drab clothes. But my wife is super conservative and as a retirement present took me to a men's shop and after consulting with the clerk bought me two suits. One is the color of mud and the other was meant for the pulpit. Is it any wonder people look their age when wives and clothiers fit them out in dull feathers?"

A. — I'm opposed to dull feathers, too. But if you are going to get along with wives and society in general it's necessary to wear mud-and-pulpit hues occasionally. But don't let the missus talk you into giving up your peacock apparel for daily wear. If more elders shared your color preferences, public attitudes toward age would be considerably brighter.

Q. — "My husband retired at 55 and sits around dreaming up one nutty invention after the other. Right now he's installing a built-in beehive in the kitchen wall—says it will have a trick interior which will permit the comb to drop free of bees into a cupboard dish marked honey. How long must I put up with this?"

A. — His puttering may annoy you, but who knows—he may come up with a lulu someday which will put him alongside Fulton and Edison. Remind yourself you are lucky having a man around who keeps busy and doesn't chase anything more dangerous than honey bees.

Q. — "My wife's mother came to live with us 10 years ago when she broke her hip and has become a permanent house guest. She's never offered to pay a cent for her keep but I happen to know she has common stocks worth $20,000 — spends her dividends on clothes and trips. My wife says I'm petty to suggest she pay something for board and room. But, since we're not rich, shouldn't she chip in with something?"

A. — I agree. But an even better solution would be to insist that she find a place of her own nearby. The fact that you are complaining suggests that the present arrangement is not harmonious. Two families shouldn't live under one roof unless it's absolutely essential or entirely agreeable to all.

Expanded Special Session Call Urged

Gov. Norbert Tiemann has been asked to include proposals to broaden and tighten the state's meat inspection laws and repeal the open meetings law in his call for a special legislative session.

Tiemann's executive assistant, Clayton Yeutter, said those proposals are among a number of suggestions submitted to the governor for his consideration.

Omaha Mayor A. V. Sorensen has indicated that he will suggest consideration of an open housing act.

Certain "non-controversial aspects" of the recommendations emerging from the legislative highway study have also been suggested for inclusion in the governor's call, Yeutter said.

"The chance of any of these being included is rather slim at this point," Yeutter said.

The special session, summoned to permit enactment of a valid congressional reapportionment act, is likely to begin in mid-January.

While no final decision has been reached on whether to include revision of the sales tax rate in the January session, Yeutter doubts that it will be considered at this time.

"It is still a possibility for this session, but there probably is not enough experience on collections," he noted.

Sales tax collections are exceeding estimates.

Tiemann had indicated earlier that he might summon a special session late next year to increase the rate from 2½% to 3% effective Jan. 1, 1969, rather than permit the rate to drop to 2% as scheduled.

More likely now would be an effort to repeal the provision dropping the rate to 2% and leave it at 2½%, Yeutter said.

But that determination will depend on future experience with sales tax collections, he stressed.

Next January's special session will probably be limited to the congressional reapportionment issue and "measures which are tax-saving in nature," Yeutter said, such as appropriations for the proposed new state laboratory building.

Funding for the structure was not fully provided by the 1967 Legislature due to a budgeting error, and it will save money to begin construction as soon as possible, Yeutter pointed out.

Senate Unit OKs Iowa Tribe Bill

Washington (AP) — A House-passed bill to provide for division of $1.5 million in judgment funds awarded the Iowa Indian tribes of Kansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma was approved Wednesday by the Senate Interior Committee.

The bill involves 2,150 beneficiaries of an Indian Claims Commission award. The distribution would be made under a mathematical formula accepted by the tribes.

Martz Named To Government Post

Washington (AP) — Clyde O. Martz, 47, Lincoln native now practicing law in Denver, has been named assistant attorney general of the United States in charge of the land and natural resources division.

He succeeds Edwin L. Weisl Jr., who recently became head of the department's civil division.

Man Requests Ballot Listing

A Massachusetts man has asked the United States Supreme Court to order the secretaries of state of all states but New Hampshire to put his name on the ballots as a Democratic candidate for President of the United States in the upcoming primary elections.

Nebraska Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer received a copy of the requested writ of mandamus.

Jacob J. Gordon, 47, of Worcester, Mass., said the secretary of state of New Hampshire placed his name on the ballot but that all other states have refused his request.

Gordon says that he has met all the constitutional requirements of a presidential candidate but is financially unable to carry out initiative petition drives which could put his name on the ballot because of campaign expenses.

State Income Tax To Hit Only 60%

Only 60% of all Nebraskans filing a federal income tax return will pay a state income tax, according to estimates released Wednesday by State Tax Commissioner Murrell McNeil.

Based on Internal Revenue Service data, McNeil said 540,000 Nebraskans will file returns, but only 388,800, or 72%, will have federal tax liability.

He estimated the number of Nebraska returns with state tax liability after deduction of the food sales tax credits would be 324,000, or 60%.

10% Of Federal

The state income tax is 10% of the federal tax liability less deduction of a $7 food credit for each person covered by the return.

For a family of four, the tax credit would be $28 and $35 for a family of five.

McNeil said the "regressive" nature of the sales tax is largely offset by $7 food credit allowed on the state income tax, which is progressive in rate.

"This remarkable innovation in Nebraska's broadened tax plan contributes to the balanced tax system that is essential to economic and industrial growth of the state," he said.

The tax commissioner said the 1967 Legislature's sales-income tax bill avoids the administrative and taxation pitfalls and problems of other states."

Tax administrators and experts in other states have termed Nebraska's new broadened tax law an excellent one in balance and administration, he said.

Bill To Protect Imperiled Wildlife Moved

Washington (UPI) — A congressional subcommittee approved a bill Wednesday to protect alligators and other species in danger of becoming extinct.

Under the bill, approved by the House fish and wildlife subcommittee, it would be a violation of federal law to carry across state lines species taken in violation of state laws.

The measure, introduced by Rep. Alton Lennon, D-N.C., would also make it illegal to import in the United States species in danger of extinction in other countries.

The bill was seen as a major step toward protecting the alligator, which is being illegally slaughtered, particularly in Florida, by poachers who sell the hides for fashionable leather goods.

The International Union for Conservation of Nature and Natural Resources has listed hundreds of species considered rare and threatened, ranging from the ivory billed woodpecker and the whooping crane to the blue whale and the orangutan.

They are generally threatened by hunters who kill them for their hides, horns or feathers, or trap them for zoos and pet shops.

Job Training Assessed

Washintgon (UPI)—A joint task force was formed by the commerce and labor departments to assess the need for expanding occupation training by private industry to give the unemployed new skills.

Kennedy's Backers See McCarthy Bid As 'Help'

© New York Times Service

Washington — Democrats around the country who have been promoting Sen. Robert F. Kennedy for president next year say that Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy's anticipated entry into the race Thursday will only help their cause.

McCarthy, D-Minn., will announce at a news conference here his intention to challenge President Johnson by entering primaries in Wisconsin and California.

This would have the effect of putting him also in the Nebraska and Oregon primaries, because the names of all serious presidential contenders are entered in those states unless they state unequivocally that they do not want to run.

Strategy Meeting

McCarthy will say that he will not decide for several days whether to enter primaries in New Hampshire, the nation's first, to be held March 12, and Massachusetts.

It was understood that McCarthy was withholding a decision on New Hampshire pending a strategy meeting in Chicago Saturday of the National Conference of Concerned Democrats, the main group that is trying to oust Johnson because of his conduct of the war in Vietnam.

Eugene S. Daniell Jr. of Franklin, N.H., who has said he would put up a slate of delegates to the Democratic National Convention favorable to Kennedy, said in an interview by telephone that he would welcome McCarthy's entry in the primary.

Kennedy has registered his official disapproval of the effort in New Hampshire to run a slate on behalf of the New York senator.

'Split Slate'

If McCarthy should enter the primary, Daniell said, he hoped for a "split slate of delegates — half for Kennedy, half for McCarthy" so as not to split the anti-Johnson vote.

"We want McCarthy to come in," Daniell said, "and we are taking no steps to discourage him. His candidacy can do nothing but help Kennedy."

Kennedy has said repeatedly he is not a candidate for the presidency. McCarthy has said his interest in entering the primaries is to encourage dissent within the party to President Johnson's Vietnam policy. Organizations that have been encouraging one or the other of them to run were formed around Vietnam dissent.

Aid Mission Ends, Leaving Strong Iran Behind

Tehran, Iran (AP) — Fifteen years ago this country tottered on the edge of economic and political disaster. Thursday the U.S. aid mission comes to its official end, but Iran with its new-found muscles will hardly notice.

After spending close to $1 billion in aid, half grant and half loan, Washington several months ago decided to remove Iran from the list of needy countries as of Nov. 30. The nation now is so strong politically and economically that it deals with both Western and Communist blocs without trying to play one against the other.

The U.S. aid headquarters, once one of the busiest buildings in this capital, has become an almost uninhabited sturcture. On the gate is a faded emblem of clasped Iranian and American hands symbolizing the aid program.

The last of the mission's directors, Edward F. Tennant, says: "Without the Iranian government's cooperation, the great achievement would not have been possible."

The mission began in 1950. It was impeded for a time by the policies of an anti-American premier, Mohammed Mossadegh, but picked up steam after Mossadegh's departure.

Of all the joint projects undertaken with the Iranian government, Tennant says the outstanding one has been the strengthening of the public administration structure.

Washington (AP) — President Johnson hailed the termination of direct U.S. aid to Iran as "a milestone in Iran's continuing progress and in our increasingly close relations."

Final Meat Bill Stalled

© New York Times Service

Washington — The House Wednesday rejected an attempt to speed into law a meat inspection bill designed to guarantee consumers wholesome meat wherever they buy.

In a roll-call vote of 207 to 166 the House turned down a move to instruct House conferees to accept a Senate version of the inspection bill in place of a milder House-passed measure. Instead, the House voted to name conferees who will confer with their Senate counterparts on ironing out differences between the two measures.

However, even opponents of the Senate version believed that nearly all its provisions will prevail in conference. "I can read the handwriting on the wall," Rep. W. R. Poague, D-Texas, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, told the House.

Doar Ends Job Fighting For Justice

Washington (AP)—John Doar spoke little. But when he spoke, men listened.

They listened from the jury box — and were convinced — when the rangy midwesterner successfully brought to books, in southern courts, southerners linked with two notorious racial crimes.

They listened tensely in a Jackson, Miss., Street, and put aside their rocks and bottles when Doar, hands up-

JOHN DOAR

Listen Men

raised, strode toward a crowd of angry Negroes that had been edging toward a double-line of policemen.

Writer's Dream

"My name is John Doar, D-O-A-R," he shouted above the noise of the crowd in a scene that would be a movie script-writer's dream. "I'm from the Justice Department, and anybody around here knows I stand for what is right."

The White House announced Wednesday that the youthful-looking Wisconsin Republican, who will be 46 Sunday, is winding up his seven-year federal civil rights career to return to the practice of law.

He will be succeeded by his former assistant, Stephen J. Pollak, 39, now a special assistant to Atty. Gen. Ramsy Clark.

First Assistant

Doar has been assistant attorney general in charge of the Civil Rights Division since April 1965. But he had made his mark in the field long before that, as first assistant to civil rights chief Burke Marshall.

From 1961 on, Doar and his colleagues trudged the clay-and-dust back roads of the deep South, interviewing rural Negroes, gathering evidence for voting discrimination cases. That spadework helped lay the foundation for the 1965 Voting Rights Act.

Doar was the department's eyes and ears in the South. He led the federal contingent at virtually every one of the civil rights crises of the 1960s — at Oxford, Montgomery, Selma. For years he spent more time on the road than at home.

Romance In Facts

If the work appeared drudgery to some outsiders, it was precisely Doar's cup of tea. "I'm a trail lawyer, a litigator," he would say. "I happen to find romance in getting the facts and putting them together."

When three Alabama Ku Klux Klansmen were exonerated of local murder charges in the March 1965 killing of a Detroit civil rights worker, Mrs. Viola Liuzzo, Doar successfully prosecuted the trio on federal civil rights charges.

And some three years after the murders of three civil rights workers in Neshoba County, Miss., Doar prosecuted the federal civil rights case against 16 men linked to the deaths. The conviction of seven—including a local Ku Klux Klan leader and a deputy sheriff—was regarded as a major breakthrough toward equal justice in the South.

Budd Raps College Chiefs' Pay Boost

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Sen. Rick Budd of Nebraska City sharply criticized Wednesday the across-the-board pay hikes handed the four state college presidents.

Budd said the State Normal Board did not use good judgment in increasing the college heads to $25,000 a year plus fringe benefits.

"The smallest college (Peru) is only one-fourth the size of the largest (Kearney)," the lawmaker said. "You don't get quality education by across-the-board increases."

Tax Council

Budd, the 1967 Legislature's revenue committee vice chairman, addressed the 17th annual conference of the Nebraska Tax Research Council in Lincoln.

"Taxpayers have a right to be concerned about the salary merry-go-round," he said. "Faculty members will be looking for the same 30% increase given the presidents."

Lashing out at the initiative petitions against the sales and income tax, the senator said Nebraska's broadened tax base "is now a balanced one."

No Longer

"No longer can we look for a tax that someone else will pay — we've run out of someone else."

Budd noted that 40% of the Nebraska taxpayers, who file a federal income tax return, will not pay a state income tax with the $7 food credit exemption adopted by the Legislature.

The senator said the sales-income tax law adopted by Nebraska eliminates the administrative and taxation problems experienced by other states.

If State Grows

"The sales-income tax is tied to a prosperous economy," he said. "If the state grows, the rates won't need adjusting."

Budd said the Legislature repealed the household goods, intangible and head taxes, and may make further changes next session.

He hinted as a uniform taxation method for motor vehicles, repeal of the personal property tax and changes in tax exemption structure for the public power districts.

May Stay At 2½%

Clayton Yeutter, Gov. Tiemann's executive assistant, told the conference that the state's sales tax may remain at 2½% if the current revenue flow is maintained.

Yeutter indicated the governor's thinking had changed from earlier this year when he said a 3% rate would be necessary beginning Jan. 1, 1969.

Nebraska's broadened tax base has the "lowest" personal and corporate income tax rate in the nation and a sales tax "lower than our neighboring states," he said.

Pagels Elected

Henry Pagels of Kearney was elected 1968 president of the organization by its trustees.

Other officers include Kenneth Boyer of Omaha, vice president; Howard Chapin of Lincoln, secretary-treasurer.

Elected trustees for three-year terms were A. James Ebel of Lincoln, Robert E. Runice of Omaha, C. Leonard Peterson of Alliance, Paul Amen of Lincoln and R. B. Crane of Omaha and for a two-year term, Clayton K. Bowe of Columbus.

Forrest A. Johnson, executive director for the past three years, was appointed executive vice president, and Maurice Brogan of Omaha, a retired tax executive, was named special assistant to President Pagels.

Malone Center To Get Part-Time Caseworker

Malone Communtiy Center will receive the services of a caseworker four hours per week in an experimntal project endorsed by the Lincoln Community Council board of directors here Wednesday.

The Catholic Social Service Bureau and Family Service will jointly sponsor and finance the assignment of a caseworker in the Malone Center. Catholic Social Service executive director Jack O'Shea told the board members.

Starting Dec. 4, a caseworker will be abailable 3-5 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. one day each week, he reported.

Trial Basis

The new service, established on a trial basis, grew out of the spring Community Council hearings on the area's needs. It was determined that professional social services would be useful at the various community centers in the city.

According to O'Shea, the caseworker will be available for exploration of problems, counseling, planning, treatment and referrals to other agencies.

Malone director Miss Kay Thompson said that the center "sees the project as a way to use other agencies for some of the problems the Malone Center is experiencing now."

Report Heard

In other business Wednesday, the council heard a report by John Carson, director of the state division of comprehensive health planning.

Explaining the purposes of the division, Carson indicated that the state may be divided into six or eight areas for planning councils to survey health needs, provide planning councils to survey health needs, provide planning assistance and recommend proper services to be provided.

However, he emphasized, it is not the function of the planning council to provide the health services needed.

Capital Beach Named Site For Proposed Yacht Club

Lincoln's Esquire Club, after searching since last spring has finally located a spot to construct its proposed new Yacht Country Club, according to Joseph Koluch, president of Esquire's board of directors.

A location at Capitol Beach Manor has been named as the site for the Yacht Club, with next spring set as a tentative construction completion date.

Under original plans the Club was to be built near 86th & O Sts. A September, 1967, completion date was set, but "land acquisition problems" prevented construction from starting and made finding a new location necessary.

Esquire Club then contacted The Knolls in south Lincoln, about the possibility of using its acreage.

According to Koluch, a meeting was held between South Hills Inc. (representing The Knolls) and the Esquire Club. A tentative proposal was drawn up which proved unfavorable to Esquire's board of directors, and The Knolls site was dropped from consideration.

Woman Insists French Officialize Folklore Names

Paris (AP) — Mrs. Mireille le Goarnic has been through the French courts and appealed to President Charles de Gaulle trying to have names of her six children officially recorded as legalistic proof of their existence.

The next step, she vows, is the World Court unless the Paris government relents.

French children usually are named for saints, and other names are discouraged. The six, aged 4 to 11, are named for Brittany folklore characters: Adraboran, Maiwenn, Gwendal, Diwezah, Sklerijenn and Brann.

WELL DRILLERS . . . work on well in Antelope Park.

Dual Role Slated For Park Wells

Work is progressing on the first of three new city water department wells in the Antelope Park well field.

After drilling is completed, the shaft will be covered by a combination well house and picnic shelter, built of rustic "rubble" stone.

Similar structures will top wells east of the Antelope Pavilion and in Havelock Park. Fire places will be located at each end with the well house in the middle.

According to Public Utilities Director Lee Blocker, the structures are a water department - park department effort to beautify Antelope Park—"by putting something attractive in the park and combining it with a functional use."

The facilities are being constructed at water department expense.

The three new drillings will raise the number of wells at Antelope Park to 22.

Presently, Blocker said, the city can pump out 10 to 12 million gallons a day at peak demand from the 19 existing wells.

With the artificial recharge system and additional wells, Blocker hopes to increase withdrawal during peak periods up to 30 million gallons a day.

The new wells are part of the water department's program to expand the local well supply, made possible by artificial recharge — pumping water from another source back into the natural underground reservoir at Antelope Park.

Budd, Holmquist Don't Want Counties In Second District

A pair of state senators whose home counties are located in the neighborhood of the Omaha-dominated Second Congressional District said Wednesday they do not want to see their counties placed in the Second District.

The comments came from Sens. Rick Budd of Nebraska City (Otoe County) and C. W. Holmquist of Oakland (Burt County). Both senators are Republicans.

The federal court ruled last week that present congressional district lines are unconstitutional because of population differences between the districts. Unless the districts are remapped before next year, congressmen in 1968 will have to run from the state at large, the court decreed.

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann, who has promised to call the Legislature into special session early next year to redistrict the state, has said he prefers to see the redistricting accomplished with a minimum of shuffling of counties.

Mathematics appear to require that about 20,000 population be transferred from the First to the Second District, and 30,000 be transferred from the First to the Third District, the governor has said.

Sen. Holmquist said he thought the simple solution would be to put Otoe County in the Second District and move Thayer, Knox and Pierce counties from the second to the third district.

"That would be a lot better from the standpoint of geography than attaching Burt and Thurston counties to the Second District," Holmquist said.

But Sen. Budd said he is opposed "to Otoe County being a football, being kicked back and forth from one district to another."

Otoe County was part of the Sedond District prior to 1961 reapportionment.

The comments suggested congressional reapportionment may not prove a simple task for the Legislature.

One of the plans said to be speculated upon would move Thayer, Fillmore and Jefferson counties from the first to the third district. Because Jefferson is the home county of First District Rep. Robert V. Denney of Fairbury, such a shuffle would put Denney and Third District Rep. Dave Martin of Kearney in the same district.

Faster Mail Service Awaits Okay By CAB

Next day mail delivery among all towns in Nebraska is only awaiting Civil Aeronautics Board approval of air taxi flights from mail sectional centers to Grand Island, Lincoln Postmaster Kenneth Lewis reported Wednesday.

The new operation, originally slated to begin Friday, involves a midnight "air lift" of all first class and airmail for other sectional centers within the state to Grand Island for immediate shuttle also by air to the appropriate sectional centers.

"Shortly the next-day service will be expanded to include Kansas and Oklahoma where it is already operative Lewis announced.

It "shouldn't be more than a year before the next day delivery will go as far as Chicago and the Gulf states," he added.

The new system will make next day delivery a statewide concept. It has been implemented primarily in the sectional centers by the use of Star truck routes for the past 2½ years. Lincoln receives and sorts the mail for 145 towns in southeast Nebraska.

According to Lewis, there will be no major change in the Lincoln Post Office operations for the project except to dispatch mail to other sectional centers at a slightly earlier time.

Each sectional center (except Hastings which will use a Star route since it is so close) will send its first class and airmail, sorted into the 10 Nebraska sectional centers, by air taxi to Grand Island about midnight.

At the Grand Island airport, pouches will be exchanged among the planes for the various sectional centers and the taxis will return to their cities.

When time permits, the mail also will be sorted by towns with the sectional centers, Lewis said.

The planes will return with the sectional center's bundles in time to be sorted for the Star routes to take the mail to the towns by 5 or 6 a.m. for home delivery.

Lewis indicated that mail in the downtown Lincoln Post Office by 10 p.m. probably could be delivered the next day anywhere in the state. However, he emphasized, a detailed schedule will be announced when the new system is implemented.

Bids have been received by the Post Office regional transportation office on air taxi service, but contracts cannot be awarded until the CAB approves the flights, the Lincoln Postmaster explained.

Romney Boosters Are 'Rethinking' Course Of Action

One of the organizers of "Nebraskans for Romney" said Wednesday his group is now "rethinking" its course of action in view of the elimination of the favorite son delegate drive for Sen. Roman Hruska.

"We were surprised by the announcement," Lincoln attorney Lawrence Reger said.

"We are now rethinking our course of action on whether to file delegates," he noted.

Reger said announcements on plants to boost the candidacy of Michigan Gov. George Romney in Nebraska will be forthcoming soon.

Universities Financed To Study Cities

© New York Times Service

New York — Four major universities are to share Ford Foundation grants of $10.8 million for what the presidents of the four institutions called the best organized academic approach toward finding solutions for problems confronting American cities.

In an announcement Wednesday, the foundation allotted $3 million each to the University of Chicago, Harvard and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Columbia University received $1.8 million, which is part of a total of $10 million the foundation had previously reported that it would provide for the university.

Last month, Columbia received $2.7 million for programs leading to improvement of conditions in Harlem. Another $5.5 million will go to Columbia eventually.

The grants Wednesday extend for three years, and by 1970 the four universities are expected to establish among them a total of 14 endowed professorships in fields directly concerned with urban planning and administration.

20 Prospects

The Ford Foundation announcement mentioned that "as many as 20 prospects for permanent appointment may be supported on an annual basis" before the endowed professors are selected. This means, it was learned from university sources, that there would be a probationary period for the candidates. The universities are anxious to bring a group of younger, more activist professors into the urban field.

There was some hint of this in the statement in which McGeorge Bundy, president of the foundation joined the four university presidents — George W. Beadle of Chicago, Grayson Kirk of Columbia, Nathan Pusey of Harvard and Howard W. Johnson, of MIT.

The statement said that despite money and talent already expended. "The root problems of American cities remain unsolved, complex and explosive."

Fall Short

The presidents added: "It seems clear that without additional skilled manpower and greater inventiveness in the urban field, efforts to improve present conditions and develop future patterns in the cities that are both humane and efficient will fall far short of their goals."

Within each university, the urban studies will fuse the skills and knowledge of the sociologist, economist, lawyer, educator, political scientist and experts in systems analysis and management. In full operation, the programs in the four universities will involve more than 800 students — 65 doctoral candidates, 390 graduate students and 390 undergraduates.

Another part of the Ford Foundation program benefits the Joint Center for Urban Studies, set up at Harvard and MIT in 1959. The center provides resources for basic research and applied studies in urban and regional affairs.

Daniel P. Moynihan, director of the joint center, said the new grants "will raise the level of urban studies at harvard and MIT to a dimension never before envisioned." In 1959, he said, "urban studies as such hardly existed at Cambridge."

IMPORTING OF ALGERIAN WINE PROTESTED

Thousands of French wine growers manned barricades across major highways and railroad tracks in southern France Wednesday in a campaign against the government's decision to resume the importing of Algerian wine. At Valergues, the growers put beams along tracks.

Funeral Association Found Guilty Of Violating Trust Law

Milwaukee, Wis. (AP) — The National Funeral Directors Association, which has its headquarters in Milwaukee, and its Wisconsin affiliate, were found guilty Wednesday of violating Wisconsin's civil antitrust law.

Circuit Judge Elmer W. Roller ruled that the defendants engaged in a conspiracy to suppress competition among funeral directors in the pricing of services and supplies through a policy of refraining from cost advertising.

The Justice Department filed a federal antitrust suit based on similar grounds in U.S. District Court last week.

Roller issued an order restraining the defendants from carrying out an article in the code of ethics of the two groups. The defendants had contended that the rule, which bans advertising prices, was "in the public interest."

The court also granted the request of Wisconsin Atty. Gen. Bronson C. La Follette to restrain the two groups from continuing the alleged conspiracy or engaging in any other such practice restricting competition, and directed that the defendants submit, within 60 days, evidence that the provising banning price advertising has been repealed.

He also imposed nominal forfeiture penalties of $250 on each defendant.

Wirtz Denies Reports He Plans To Quit

Washington (UPI) — Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz Wednesday described as "poison poppycock" reports that he planned to resign from President Johnson's Cabinet.

"I would rather be doing what I'm doing now than anythink else I can think of," the Labor Department office quoted Wirtz as saying in a telephone call from Miami.

With the capital already puzzled over the forthcoming departure of Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, Metromedia News quoted informed sources as saying Wirtz had told Johnson he was leaving the Cabinet.

Nebraska 4-H Delegates Find 'Congress' Active

Chicago — Nebraska's 33 delegates to National 4-H Club Congress are continuing to make themselves known among the ranks of 1,600 boys and girls from around the country.

Being singled out for special responsibilities and awards during Club Congress is "recognition heaped upon recognition," points out Elaine Skucius, associate state 4-H leader at the University of Nebraska, as all winners of expense-paid trips to Chicago are in the Windy City as a result of top achievement in club work.

Latest special activities involving members of the Nebraska delegation:

—Pam Foster of Grant, a citizenship winner, was selected by interview to preside at the Monday afternoon general session of the conference. The session featured a round-table sicussion on "Pursuit of Excellence vs. Why Care?" and included as panelists Capt. James A. Lovell (USN), an astronaut on the Apollo moon team and special consultant to President Johnson on physical fitness; and Samuel White Jr., president, Oliver Corporation.

—Larry White of Lexington and Lynda Parson of Valley were interviewed as possible members of the "Report to the Nation" team of 4-H'ers, a select group of outstanding club members who will rove the U.S. next year, extrolling the virtues of the youth movement which now counts one of every six Americans as alumni.

—White represented state and national winners in the 4-H beef project in responding to the donor, E. I. duPont Co., at a special dinner for beef award recipients.

On Western Show

—Four Nebraskans, Donna Hansen of Davey, Linda Fosler of Seward, Duane Vogt of Kennard and Doug Johnson of Scribner, were invited to participate in the daily farm-news-variety western show Country Fair, presented by WGN, Chicago.

The variety of honors and responsibilities do not come "scot-free," however. Some delegates have spent several hours. at the expense of missing lucrative tours, to rehearse for special events. Among these was Lynn Ogden, 17, of Chapman, Nebraskas' dress revue state winner who will participate in the National 4-H Dress Revue November 28. For interested women, Miss Ogden's attire in the revue, "Fashion Formulas," will consist of smart off-white Einigers Empress wool coat and a green paisley Isidor Kaplan bonded wool dress. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loren J. Ogden is a high school senior and plans to study fashion merchandising in Denver following her graduation.

Dawson Co. Team Wins

Chicago — Nebraska earned the grand champion purple ribbon here when two Dawson County youths delivered a 4-H livestock conservation demonstration. The 4-H'ers who competed against a field of state champions were Bruce Rickertsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Rickertsen of Lexington, and Phyllis Bourn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vurrell Bourn of Lexington.

The trip to Chicago was sponsored by the Omaha Livestock Foundation. They were accompanied to Chicago by Mr. and Mrs. Chris Rickertsen, Mrs. Vurrell Bourn and Krause of Eddyville.

The 1967 national contest marks the 15th time that Dawson County has had the Nebraska state 4-H demonstration champion competing in Chicago. Other top winners were from North Carolina.

Japanese Ag Trainees Begin 3-Month Course

Thirty-five Japanese agricultural trainees arrived here this week to begin a three month short course in meat animal production.

The short course, which is being conducted by the University of Nebraska Animal Science Department, is sponsored by the National 4-H Foundation. It is part of a two year training program in American agricultural technology and farm practice.

During their stay in the United States, the trainees spend 18 months working in U.S. agricultural enterprises and six months in classroom study. One month of this period is devoted to intensive English language study.

Twelve trainees studying swine production spent the first 11 months of the year working on farms near Lyons, Oakland, Elgin, Wayne, Battle Creek, Wisner and Sioux City.

During the first six weeks of the short course, all trainees will study world animal agriculture, breeding genetics, nutrition, diseases, parasites, pasture management, grading, marketing, livestock by-products, horse, mule, dairy, and sheep production.

During the next six weeks, the trainees will divide into groups and study either beef or swine production in depth.

Clinton Hoover, head of the Hall of Youth at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education where the trainees are housed, said the course is similar to the farm and ranch operators short course.

State Area Educational Districts Eyed

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

Area educational districts providing supportive services to school systems received close scrutiny as a possible part of school district organization here Wednesday.

Members of the four-state Great Plains School District Organization Project, meeting for a two-day conference on vocational education and area educational districts, were informed about the newest section of the restructured state school system by Dr. Robert Stephens.

Director of a study for area educational districts and professor of educational administration, Stephens reported on his project and developments of area units in other states.

'Improvement'

The area districts, known as educational service units in Nebraska, were praised as "an improvement in the structure of a state system of education, a necessary prerequisite to the implementation of many needed innovations in public elementary and secondary education."

Stephens contended that such districts are "the most feasible approach of overcoming existing inadequacies and of providing equal educational opportunities for all children, and of protecting local control and local determination."

Chet Riley, executive secretary of the Denver Area Superintendents' Council, told the group of state education officials, state boards of education members and state legislators from Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota and Missouri about the Denver area's metropolitan approach to cooperative planning.

Cooperation

The 14 school districts in the metropolitan Denver area formed the superintendents' council "to provide a forum for mutual metropolitan education problems which could be approached on a cooperative basis," Riley said.

The council also provided an opportunity for cooperative planning and educational leadership in preventing deterioration and decay in the metropolitan area.

It was felt, according to Riley, that Denver could "prevent the major disorganization that had occurred in other cities due to urbanization."

However, he pointed out, the superintendents discovered that the public schools are not the only educators in the city that needed to be involved. Private schools, state agencies, universities, labor councils, health organizations and others provided representatives to assist with the problem.

Woman Charged In Shooting

A 42-year-old Lincoln woman was charged Wednesday with shooting with intent to kill in connection with a Tuesday night shooting incident in which Elijah Carlisle, suffered a chest wound.

Mrs. Mary A. Thomas of 2410 Vine requested a preliminary hearing in Lancaster County Court which was set Dec. 12, and Judge Ralph Slocum set bond at $2,500.

Carlisle, also 42, of 2410 Vine, was reported in satisfactory condition following surgery for removal of the 22-caliber revolver bullet, according to authorities.

According to police the shooting apparently followed a domestic argument between the two parties.

Mercenary Bill Sought

Brussels (AP) — A maximum five years in jail is provided in a bill introduced in Parliament by Justice Minister Pierre Wiigny for recruiting Belgians as free lance military mercenaries such as those used recently in the Congo. The bill would permit recruiting of Belgians, with government authority, as technical advisers for foreign forces.

Cost Of Living Rises 0.3% In October

Washington (UPI) — Higher prices for nearly every consumer product except food pushed the cost of living up another three-tenths of a per cent last month, the Labor Department reported Wednesday.

The department's consumer price index climbed to 117.5% of its 1957-59 average, as Americans paid $11.75 in October for the same basket of goods and services that cost only $10 a decade ago.

The new 1968 automobiles introduced during October cost an average of $116 more than 1967 models — and the increase wasn't all attributed to government-required safety devices.

$56 For Safety

The department figured that safety features, antipollution devices and other improvements accounted for $56 of the increase and the remaining $60 was "pure" price increase.

Clothing prices were up eight-tenths of one per cent above September and four per cent more than a year ago.

Prices for women's and girls' clothing climbed with their hemlines, showing the largest October price jump since 1950.

Food continued to be a bargain. Retail prices dipped two-tenths of one per cent. Although the decline was less than usual for October, consumers were still paying only one-tenth of one per cent more for food than they did in October, 1966.

Medical care costs rose four-tenths of one per cent during the month and were 6.6% higher than a year ago.

Over-all the cost of living was 2.6% higher than a year ago, the department said. A spokesman predicted at least a three per cent increase next year.

The wholesale price index, which economists consider a better measurement of inflation than the consumer index, declined one-tenth of a per cent in October to 106.1% of the 1957-59 average.

But Arthur M. Ross, commissioner of labor statistics, said most of the decline was due to lower wholesale farm and food prices.

He said department economists were concerned about a three-tenths of one per cent increase in industrial commodity prices, which were stable this year but have risen one per cent in the last month.

FOOD

it's Christmas cookie time

With delicious cookies made beforehand, you're ready, at the drop of a hat, to say Happy Holidays with a delightful sweet table. Making them with butter insures good flavor—for the flavor of cookies made with butter makes them taste as good or better days after they are baked as the day the came out of the oven.

The chewy Cashew Drops are brimming with the sweetness of brown sugar and the goodness of butter combined with the cruchy taste of salted cashews. And they're topped with an easy confectioners sugar frosting that's bright with the flavor of browned butter. You only need one bowl to mix the cookie dough in and the frosting is mixed right in the same saucepan that you brown the butter in so there are hardly any dishes involved. What's more, these breezy cookies only take about 10 minutes to bake. And they're as delicious as they are easy.

The Mocha Orange Crisps are just about as easy, but it's best to chill the dough before rolling the cookies. It's easier to handle when chilled. If you're making both kinds of cookies at the same time, you might want to prepare the Mocha Orange Crisps dough first and chill it while you are making the Cashew Drops. Later, when you have rolled out the dough for the Mocha Orange Crisps you can cut it into any shape you choose to fit the season. Whether they're round or tree-shaped or wreath-shaped or Santa-shaped you'll love their delightfully unusual mocha and orange flavor combination. The creamy mocha glaze frosting can be topped with chopped walnuts for a crunchy finishing touch.

CASHEW DROPS

- ½ cup (1 stick) butter
- 1 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 cups sifted regular all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- ½ cup dairy sour cream
- 1 cup chopped salted cashews

FROSTING:

- 3 tablespoons butter
- 1½ cup confectioners sugar
- 2-2½ tablespoons milk

In a mixing bowl cream butter; gradually add sugar. Beat in egg and vanilla. Sift together flour, baking powder and baking soda; add to creamed mixture alternately with sour cream. Add cashews. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto buttered baking sheets. Bake in a preheated 375 degree oven 8-10 minutes; remove to wire rack to cool. When cool, frost. Yield: 6-7 dozen. To prepare Frosting: In a saucepan heat butter over low heat until golden. Remove from heat and stir in sugar and milk.

MINTED PECANS

- 2 cups sugar
- Dash of salt
- ¾ cup evaporated milk
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1 teaspoon peppermint extract
- 4 cups (1 lb.) pecan halves

Place two large sheets of aluminum foil on counter top in readiness for spreading out coated nuts. In a heavy 2-quart saucepan combine sugar, salt, evaporated milk and butter; heat over low heat, stirring constantly, until sugar is dissolved (about 5 minutes). Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, to soft ball stage (234 degrees-240 degrees F.), about 7 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in peppermint extract. Add pecans; stir to coat well. Pour out onto one sheet of foil. With two forks, quickly separate nuts, dropping onto second sheet of foil. Cool thoroughly. Store in airtight container.

MOCHA ORANGE CRISPS

- 1 cup (2 sticks) butter
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon orange rind
- ½ teaspoon vanilla
- 3 cups sifted regular all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup orange juice

GLAZE:

- 1 cup confectioners sugar
- 2 teaspoons instant coffee powder
- 2 tablespoons water
- Chopped walnuts

In a mixing bowl cream butter; gradually add sugar. Blend in orange rind and vanilla. Sift together flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Add to creamed mixture alternately with orange juice. Chill for ease in handling. On lightly floured surface roll dough to about ⅛-inch thickness; cut with floured cookie cutters. Place on buttered baking sheets and bake in a preheated 350 degree oven 6-8 minutes; remove to wire rack to cool. Yield 8-9 dozen. When cool, brush with glaze. Sprinkle with nuts. To prepare Glaze: In a small bowl combine sugar and coffee powder; add water and stir until smooth.

Here is a Christmas cookie recipe that is a bit off the beaten path—but it has personality. We're honest enough to tell you that it is a little more work than the others, but not so much that you will find it tedious.

FATTIGMAND

Yield: 10 dozen cookies

- 1½ tablespoons melted butter or margarine
- 3 eggs, beaten
- 3 tablespoons cream
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- ½ teaspoon ground cardamom seed
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 4½ to 5 cups sifted flour

Mix together the eggs, cream, and sugar. Stir in butter, lemon juice, cardamom, salt, and 2 cups of flour. Mix well. Stir in more flour to make a stiff dough. Wrap in waxed paper and chill at least 1 hour. Remove ¼ of the dough at a time, and roll out on a lightly floured board or pastry cloth until paper thin. Cut into 2-inch diamonds. Cut a slit in the center of each and pull one corner through. Fry in deep fat heated to 350 F. until delicately brown, about ½ minute. Dust with powdered sugar before serving.

Today I am going to tell how to make a lovely gift that costs but a few cents to make, can be made in 30 minutes or less, and also is useful. It is a decorated can that may be used to hold cookies, candy or popcorn. Filled with any of these things it will make a gift fit for a queen. After it is empty it may be used in almost any room in the house. In the bedroom it may house curlers. In the bath it may hide a roll of tissue or hold soap.

You will need a two pound coffee can, a ten cent chore boy, about twelve inches of cording, and one or two plastic flowers. The last three items should match or harmonize. Oh yes, you will also need a little aluminum foil.

Now, a word about the chore boy and the cording. This is a special chore boy. It usually comes in blue (perhaps we could call it a light turquoise), red or yellow. It may come in other colors but those are the ones I have seen. You will probably have to shop around until you find the color you wish. The cording is usually about $\frac{5}{8}$ of an inch in diameter and may be found at notion counters and sometimes in the curtain department.

First, punch a hole in the side of the can, about one-half inch below the top edge. The hole will be just large enough to pass the cord through. Half way around the can punch a second hole. Put the end of the cord through one of the holes and knot the end so that it will not come back out. The knot is on the inside of the can. Pass the other end of the cord through the second hole and knot it, also, on the inside of the can. This is your handle.

Cover the can with aluminum foil. You may cover the bottom of the can if you wish, but it would not be necessary. Bring the foil over the top edge and down into the can a ways.

The "ticklish" part is next. We undo the chore boy. We have to be very careful not to harm it in any way. One slip and we have a hole in the mesh. The mesh runs just like a silk stocking does. Very carefully remove the eye that holds the chore boy together. Turn inside out. Carefully unfold the mesh, but do not unroll either end. They are slightly rolled. You will find another eye on the other end. Remove it as you did the first one. Roll both ends a couple of turns to insure that they will not come unrolled.

The chore boy is now a tube with a roll at both ends. Stretch the tube through the middle so it will slip over the coffee can. It will not go over a three pound can so do not try that. Use a two pound can. Center the mesh at the center of the can. Now unroll, as necessary, toward each end so that the can is almost covered, but leaving a roll at both ends of the can.

All that is left is to decorate the lid. Cut the stems of two matching flowers short. Place the stems together, with the heads facing in opposite directions. Punch two tiny holes in the plastic lid. Wire the flower stems to the lid, using the holes to secure them. Your lovely can is completed.

Turquoise mesh over the aluminum foil, with matching cord and flowers is particularly lovely. If you prefer, use other colors. For a Christmas touch in the kitchen use red over light green foil such as is used for wrapping gifts. Or use your imagination.

MUSIC—Alicia de Larrocha

By HAROLD C. SCHONBERG
(c) New York Times Service

New York — Alicia de Larrocha probably does not like being typed as a specialist in Spanish piano music. She is a superlative executant — how she gets over the keys! — and a fine musician who plays Bach with thrust, rhythm and clarity, who plays romantic music with color and style. But she happens to have been born in Spain, to have studied with Frank Marshall (the specialist in Spanish music, and a close friend of Granados and Albeniz); and she also happens to play the music of Granados and Albeniz better than any pianist before the public.

A week from Thursday, (Dec. 7) in Carnegie Hall, she will present the complete "Goyescas" by Granados, in honor of the hundredth anniversary of the birth of that fine composer.

It is not easy music. Spanish piano music has two monuments — the "Goyescas" and the "Iberia" of Albeniz. Both suites were composed at about the same time: "Iberia" from 1906-09, "Goyescas" in 1909-10.

Both composers did much to break new ground. "Iberia" and "Goyescas" are large-scale works for large-scale virtuosos, nostalgic and evocative, full of the kind of scent of Spanish rhythms, Spanish melody, Spanish life that nobody but a native-born composer could bring.

The Albeniz and Granados pieces have a technical basis in common. They are immensely difficult, full of inner voices, featuring wide stretches, delicate pedal effects, quite a thick texture and an unusually rich quality of figuration. Of the two, "Iberia" is musically the more direct. "Goyescas" is more romantic, more impressionistic, dreamier, a little vaguer in outline, perhaps more haunting and even more original.

Apparently Granados had been thinking about the music long before he set to work on it. As the title indicates, the inspiration was the great painter Goya.

"I am enamored with the psychology of Goya, with his palette, with him, with his muse the Duchess of Alba, with his quarrels with his models, his loves and flatteries. That whitish pink of the cheeks, contrasting with the blend of black velvet; those subterranean creatures, hands of mother of pearl and pasmine resting on jet trinkets, have possessed me."

Granados wrote these words from the heart.

His suite originally had six pieces, to which was added "El Pelele." By far the most famous, and the one most often played in concern divorced from the suite, is "Quejas, O La Maja Y El Ruisenor," known in English as "The Maiden and the Nightingale." It contains one of the loveliest, most plaintive melodies that the entire late romantic school of music has to show, and at the end there are those wispy arabesques and trills of the nightingale singing.

Art-- Cleveland

BY JOHN CANADY
(c) New York Times Service

New York — While New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art rides along securely as the American Louvre, it keeps an eye on the Cleveland Museum of Art, which appears to be on the way to clinching the disputed title of runner-up. An exhibition of 132 works of art acquired during 1967, opening in Cleveland yesterday (Wednesday) shows why.

Cleveland's major prize is its new Rembrandt, "An Old Man Praying," dated 1661, eight years before the painter's death at the age of 63. But the picture has a rival in a sculpture characterized by Sherman E. Lee, the director of the museum, as "The most important Baroque, ivory group known to exist." A descent from the cross, it was commissioned by Prince Eusebius von Liechtenstein from the sculptor Adam Lenckhardt in 1646 and was completed seven years later. The piece stands 17½ inches high and includes eight figures carved from a single piece of ivory under the terms of the contract.

A turquoise mosaic and terra cotta mask from the Mixtec culture of ancient Mexico came to the museum this year in a lump of clay. After study by X-ray it was removed this year with the displacement of only five bits of mosaic, which were restored to their original position. Tests place the mask at about A.D. 1200.

Near the top of the list, Cleveland also places a "Rakshasa," a 10th-century stone sculpture from Cambodia of the Khmer civilization; a mirror rest in the form of a siren, bronze-inlaid with silver, of about 475 B.C. and cast in Corinth; two painted walnut altar angels, French, from the third quarter of the 13th century; and an extremely rare ivory, "Christ Blessing," and busts of apostles, Ottonian, about the year 970.

Only about 10 years ago it was still possible to list Boston's Museum of Fine Arts, founded in 1870, the same year as the Metropolitan, the Philadelphia Museum of Art, founded in 1875, and the Art Institute of Chicago, founded in 1879, as the three contenders for second place to the Metropolitan in the American Museum category. (The National Gallery in Washington is in a special category, essentially a gallery of western painting rather than a museum covering the entire range of art.) But while Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago can point to extraordinary collections and important recent acquisitions, it is generally conceded that they cannot match the record of Cleveland — founded late, in 1913 — in the combination of quantity, quality and wide range of acquisitions year after year.

It's New

Obsolete in today's new house is the sterile tile bath of a decade ago. Today emphasis is on glamor.

Found in new or modernized houses are baths compartmented for multiple use. Basins, frequently double, are housed in decorator-styled cabinets to please the eye and provide towel storage.

Luxurious wall-to-wall carpeting's not unusual either, while glass enclosed tubs and showers are almost taken for granted.

Installation of a mural is another easy and inexpensive way to dramatize your bath. Marlite has introduced exciting mural panels, featuring scenes and designs rendered in rich, gold tones and finished semi-gloss.

Holiday Decor

Nothing does more than cut green foliage to give a room that perfect holiday touch at minimum expenditure of both time and money. And foliage arrangements are wonderfully versatile. Greenery alone has a natural affinity for modern furnishings and contemporary architecture.

Magnolia leaves — rich, shiny green on one side and velvety bronze on the other— are especially dramatic in large-scale arrangements. Use them where you have a big wall to fill. Your florist will be happy to make an arrangement for you whether you bring your own container or select one at his shop. If you prefer to make your own, use four magnolia branches cut to assorted lengths, the tallest three times the height of your container. Place them in triangular position, tallest in the center, right and left branches pointing forward at each side point, the shortest branch centered very low near the rim of the container.

Magnolia branches are impressive enough to arrange without adding flowers or contrasting leaves. Such is the case, also, with the iridescent canna leaf. These are especially beautiful in a much smaller arrangement, and placed in a glazed pottery container. Canna leaves are pliable and can be manipulated. To get leaves to curve to right and left, bend gently with both thumbs at the point where the leaf springs out of the stem. Six leaves only are enough for a beautiful arrangement.

FOR MEN ONLY

New York (UPI) — The white shirt may be going the way of the old stick pin. Today's favorite color is blue.

So reports one major shirtmaker and haberdasher, A. Sulka & Co., which finds that fewer than four of every 10 shirts it sells is white, compared with eight of every 10 five years ago. Merchandise manager Louis DiLonardo attributed the change to the growing popularity of more elaborated colored and styled suits which demand shirts of stronger contrast.

Books the best reading in 1967

BY ELIOT FREMONT-SMITH
(c) New York Times Service

New York — Incredibly enough, it is that time of year again. The following is a roundup of the novels published so far during 1967 that this reviewer has thought outstanding.

Some of the 20 novels are funny, some grippling, some chilling, and a few might provoke even Santa. Together, however, they exhibit accomplishment in a wide variety of styles and are evidence of the continuing vitality of a literary art.

Following are the 20 listed in alphabetical order:

"Against Entropy," by Michael Frayn — Staffers of a minor London newspaper battle each other and foxy fate in one of the funniest books of the year.

"The Chosen," by Chaim Potok — An affecting tale of generational and religious conflict among Hasidic and orthodox Jews in modern Brooklyn.

"The Confessions of Nat Turner," by William Styron — Rich, enveloping documentary novel about the bloody slave revolt of 1831; currently the No. 1 best seller in fiction.

"The Eighth Day," by Thornton Wilder — An inexplicable murder, a false confession and a surprise escape open this vast and moving novel about the destinies of two American families.

"Fathers," by Herbert Gold — Adoration, anger and anguish are sensitively explored in an "imaginative memoir" of fathers and sons.

"Games Of Chance," by Thomas Hinde—Two adroitly suspenseful novellas, one touching, one haunting, by an English writer of rare craftsmanship.

"A Hall of Mirrors," by Robert Stone—New Orleans is the setting of a satirical first novel of remarkable eloquence, originality and imaginative gusto.

"Inconsolable Memories," by Edmundo Desnoes, translated by the author—Intense, ironic, beautiuly composed novel about the private and public selves of a failed revolutionary in Castro's Cuba, by Cuba's best writer.

"The Man Who Cried I Am," by John A. Williams—A dying Negro writer and intellectual tries to come to terms with himself and his country in a forceful, penetrating story of commitment and disillusionment.

"The Manor," by Isaac Bashevis Singer, translated by Joseph Singer and Elaine Gottlieb — The contest of faith and worldliness among the Jews of nineteenth century Poland is delineated in a traditional but expert novel.

"The Master and Margarita," by Mikhail Bulgakov, translated by Michael Glenny—"Fantastical and devastating satire on Stalinist Russia in which the devil comes to Moscow. This was written between 1928 and 1940, and published, slightly censored, in the Soviet Union last year.

"North To Yesterday," by Robert Flynn — A modern cattle drive is the focus of a shrewd and touching satire on the vanishing west.

"An Operational Necessity," by Gyn Griffin — A gripping tale of brutality at sea explores men's responsibilities in time of war.

"Rosemary's Baby," by Ira Levin — Lively tale of witchcraft and warlockery in a very proper Manhattan apartment house.

"Shadow Of God," by Frank Rooney — Solid, powerful novel, written with dignity and suspense, about a Catholic nun whose faith, mind and body lead her to an unexpected destiny.

"The Ticket That Exploded," by William S. Burroughs — Hideous, funny, revolting — and effective — vision of Apocalypse, with much of the imagery of "Naked Lunch."

"To Be A Man," by William Decker—The life of the cowboy, as it really was, from 1900 to recent times, quietly and authentically recaptured.

"The Tour," by David Ely —Suspenseful chiller about some tourists out for kicks in South America, a guide who creates iguana stampedes and a secret, lethal war machine.

"When She Was Good," by Philip Roth — A paranoiac girl destroys several lives in a novel that powerfully evokes midwestern America in the decade after World War II.

"Why Are We In Vietnam?" by Norman Mailer—Outrageous, courageous allegorical novel, ostensibly about some Texans hunting grizzly in Alaska, by America's most intrepid polemical metaphorist.

Trendwood
Kimberly Heights

suburbia

If Thanksgiving is by this time no more than a memory for most suburban residents there is a good reason. Right now they are devoting their time and attention to the festive holidays ahead which are to be exceptionally busy in the suburban areas.

We are sure, however, that if Thanksgiving is just a memory at the moment, it is a very warm one.

Last week was an especially busy one for Trendwood residents, Dr. and Mrs. Edward Rack. Monday evening was spent entertaining newcomers to Lincoln, Col. and Mrs. Robert Brown and family. The evening was a particularly enjoyable one for Col. and Mrs. Brown, who have resided in Lincoln for about two months, because their daughter, Miss Cindy Brown, arrived from Washington, D.C., where she is employed, to be with them for the Thanksgiving holidays.

Then on Wednesday, Dr. and Mrs. Rack and sons Mike and Bill went to Beatrice where they were weekend guests of Mrs. Rack's father, William Kipf. Mr. and Mrs. Rack and their sons were kept busy during their five day stay visiting with friends and relatives.

Des Moines, Iowa, was the Thanksgiving destination of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Shoemaker, who spent part of last week with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Williams, and grandchildren, Molly and Craig. One of the highlights of their trip was attending the skating show, "Holiday on Ice."

Some ex-Lincoln residents took advantage of the holiday to make a trip back to their former home. We are sure that Mr. and Mrs. Earl Johnson, now of Seattle, Wash., had a wonderful time renewing old acquaintances during their three-day stay with Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Schleich. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson proved they still are Nebraskans at heart, too — by attending the NU-Oklahoma football game on Thanksgiving Day.

Visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Meroney was Mr. Meroney's mother, Mrs. E. B. Meroney, of Houston, Tex. Mrs. Meroney returned home on Friday.

Another family happy to welcome home a daughter last week was that of Kimberly Heights residents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jiracek. Miss Lynn Jiracek, who teaches school in Aurora, Colo., spent her vacation in Lincoln with her family. On Friday Mr. and Mrs. Jiracek, Lynn, Kim and Jenny, accompanied by Tom Adams, went to Verdigree for a visit with Mr. Jiracek's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jiracek.

Also included at the family gathering were Mr. Jiracek's brothers-in-law and sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Barta of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, (formerly of Lincoln), and Mr. and Mrs. Neal Sandoz and family.

Mrs. Pearl Frey had a busy Thanksgiving in Red Cloud where she was the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Callahan. While there Mrs. Frey had the opportunity to greet other relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Callahan, and their dauhters Connie and Jeannie of Wichita, Kan., for instance; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kottman of Elsworth, Kan.; Mr. and Mrs. Ted Blackstone of Minneapolis, Kan.; and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Heggens, and their children, Debby and Terry of Gibbon. Mrs. Frey's mother returned home with her and was in Lincoln until Saturday.

Dolls Will Help Fill Santa's Packs

Santa Claus would be very pleased if he could see the many, many dolls which are beginning to accumulate at the home of Mrs. W. R. Weyhrauch.

You understand, the dolls are not for Mrs. Weyhrauch —but she will be the hostess at her home next Monday afternoon when the Lancaster County Medical Auxiliary will hold its annual "collection of dolls", to be distributed to little girls in Lincoln at Christmas through the Family Service Association.

The members will meet for a 12:45 o'clock luncheon and hear a talk by George Kailey, director of Family Service. Assisting Mrs. Weyhrauch as hostesses will be Mrs. W. W. Carveth and Mrs. Fred Ferciot.

The professional "critics" passing their approval on the dolls are (from the left) Carolyn Carveth, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Stephen W. Carveth; Timmy Neely, son of Dr. and Mrs. O. A. Neely; and Mary Weyhrauch, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Weyhrauch.

Attendants Revealed

Revealing plans for a December wedding is Miss Gaye Herring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne J. Herring, whose betrothal to Jean Uffelman, a graduate assistant in biology at the University of Nebraska, was announced earlier this fall.

The Nebraska Wesleyan University coed has named Miss Paula Hancock of Herman, as her maid of honor for the ceremony, which will be solemnized Friday, Dec. 15, at Westminster Presbyterian Church.

Her bridesmaids will be Miss Jan Nelson, Miss Judy Rosen and Miss Suzi Erickson, and the flower girl will be Miss Kathie Casper.

Lighting the candles for the 7:30 o'clock service will be Chuck Haifley and Don Casper.

Bill North will serve as best man for Mr. Uffelman, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Uffelman.

Miss Bonnie Jean Berg of Lincoln, is naming the members of her bridal party for her marriage to David B. Zinsmaster, son of Mrs. Garrett Zinsmaster,

The bride-elect, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Berg of Meadow Grove, has named Mrs. Donavon Benson of Syracuse, as her matron of honor for the service, which will be solemnized at 7:30 o'clock, at Immanuel Lutheran Church in Tilden.

Miss Joyce Flood of Lincoln, will be the maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Lynn Zinsmaster of Omaha, and Miss Jane Bennett of Lincoln.

Serving as best man will be Steven Zinsmaster of Lincoln, and the groomsmen will be Bruze Zinsmaster, Independence, Mo.; Robert Berg, Meadow Grove; and Dan Hile, Lincoln. Seating the guests will be Kenneth R. Berg, Minneapolis, Minn.; Donavon Benson, Syracuse; and Lyndal Khol, Tilden.

Carrying the rings will be Nickolas Berg, Minneapolis, and Todd Zinsmaster, Independence, Mo.

December Bride-elect Honored At Courtesies

The courtesies are continuing for Miss Vicki Roe, who will become the bride of Roger Yant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Yant,

The soon-to-be bride will be honored Friday evening at a party to be given by Mrs. Herbert Salzman and her daughter, Mrs. Roger Hirsch of Wahoo, at the home of Mrs. Salzman.

Eighteen guests have been invited for an informal evening and will present a personal shower to the honoree.

Miss Tartar, who has chosen Feb. 10, as the date for her marriage to Marlin Hupka, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Hupka, was presented a miscellaneous shower during the informal afternoon. The 21 guests included members of the families.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mrs. Frances Tartar of Fairbury.

ABBY

give uncle a clout

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl with a big problem. Please don't laugh, Abby, but my problem is that I am ticklish. And I mean like if someone just tickles me a little bit, I practically go into hysterics.

Of course nearly everyone who knows me knows about how ticklish I am, but my uncle in particular takes advantage of this, and he will get a hold of me and tickle me until I am so played out from laughing and screaming that I always end up crying.

My parents aren't much help, Abby, and I can't handle this alone. Please tell me what to do.

TICKLISH

DEAR TICKLISH: Being ticklish is no laughing matter, and I sympathize with you. Your uncle sounds like a first class nincompoop, who's probably sadistic to boot. When you see him next, give him fair warning that if he so much as puts a hand on you, you will clout him with a lamp, or whatever is handy. Then go ahead and do it. No jury would convict you.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a pilot for a big air line, and on layovers in diferent cities the stewardesses frequently go out with the fellows, and on occasion they go to dinner, movies or sightseeing. My husband says this is the accepted thing.

I am consumed by jealousy and tied up in knots just thinking about it. I need advice on how to handle the situation so I don't question him too much and get into fights with him when he comes home.

I don't have any reason to doubt my husband but I can't rid myself of the jealous feelings I have. I love him very much, and am so afraid of what might happen as a result of the pretty new young faces that surround him. Can you help me?

JEALOUS

DEAR JEALOUS: Jealousy is a "sickness." The twin germs which usually cause it are lack of self-confidence and mistrust. Don't quiz him, but let him know (good humoredly) that you think he is quite a prize and are slightly jealous. (This will be his cue to reassure you, as anyone with sense enough to fly a plane must surely know.) Frankly, I don't think you have anything to worry about. The husband who swings away from home avoids mentioning other girls.

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 ♥	Pass

Opening lead — jack of clubs.

Point count is often helpful in determining whether or not to bid a slam. Here is an example of how it is used.

South bids a spade and North responds three spades. South knows that the jump raise indicates 13 to 15 points, and he therefore assumes a combined total of at least 33 points, the magic number for a slam.

However, responder's values need not consist of high-card points only. He may have distributional features equivalent to high-card points. Thus he may have 11 high-card points and yet have a sound jump raise because of a void or singleton and good trump support.

So South uses Blackwood to check on aces. When North replies five hearts, showing two aces, South bids the slam because he has the intermediate strength to justify it — and even though he knows an ace is missing.

The contract is certainly sound, but it failed in this case because of a clever falsecard by East. West led a club and East took the ace and returned a club. Declarer won with the king and led the king of spades, on which East played the nine!

South had been planning to continue with a low spade to the ace to protect against the possibility of East's having the J-9-x-x of spades, but when East produced the nine, South was forced to consider the possibility of the nine being a singleton.

If this were the case, it would mean that West started with the J-6-4-3 of spades and leading low to the ace would then prove fatal. So South, on this reasoning, continued with the queen of spades. When West showed out, the contract was kaput.

If East had not falsecarded, declarer would surely have made the slam. South's only possible hope to overcome a 4-1 break would have been to lead a low spade to the ace, and the cat would then have been out of the bag.

Senate Bills Raise Civilian, Armed Services Pay

Washington (AP) — The Senate passed bills Wednesday night giving federal civilian employes and members of the armed forces pay raises that will cost about $3.5 billion a year and increasing postal rates by $916 million a year.

Both measures follow substantially the same lines as legislation already passed by the House. Differences will have to be worked out by Senate-House conference committees.

First the Senate passed 85 to 2 a bill that will give postal workers a 6% wage increase and other federal civilian employes a pay raise of 4.5% retroactive to Oct. 1.

Postal employes will get another 5% increase next July 1 and other civilian employes at least 3%. A third round of pay increases would take effect July 1, 1969.

The bill also increases postal rates in January of 1968. The cost of mailing a letter will go up from 5 cents to 6 cents and the price of air-mail stamps will be 10 cents instead of 8 cents.

Passage of this bill was followed by 83-0 approval of a measure that would increase the compensation of armed services personnel by 4.5%, also retroactive to Oct. 1.

Allowances Considered

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said the basic pay of the military forces would be increased by 5.6% but that, taking into account subsistence and quarters allowances, the compensation would be only 4.5% greater.

The bill also provides that in the future members of the armed forces will automatically receive pay raises equal to those provided for civilian employes of the government.

The over-all cost of the military pay raise bill, affecting three million enlisted personnel and about 400,000 officers, was placed at $822 million on an annual basis.

The three-stage pay raise for postal workers and the government's civilian employes was estimated at $2.7 billion when fully effective.

The postal bill would enable householders to demand they be taken off the mailing list of companies that send them unsolicited advertisements or material they consider erotic.

Mao Denounced

London (AP) — The British Communist Party, membership 33,000, ended its four-day annual congress with a resolution denouncing "the disruptive activities" of Red China's Mao Tse-tung and his supporters.

Chinese, Malays Clash In Fights

Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia (AP) —Fighting between Chinese and Malays broke out near Kuala Lumpur on Wednesday as the government mobilized civil defense groups, extended curfews and deployed more troops to quell racial battles spreading through northwestern Malaysia.

One Malay was killed in a clash of about 30 Malays and Chinese 20 miles west of Kuala Lumpur. The capital is 200 miles south of Penang, the island city where riots developed last Friday during a general strike to protest currency devaluation.

Police said 22 persons have been killed and 200 hurt in disorders government officials say were fanned by Communist terrorists seeking to take over the country. Nearly 950 persons have been arrested, most of them Chinese secret society members.

Among the dead was an Indian, one of three persons security officers have shot as curfew violators.

The one bright spot for the government was Penang. Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman, touring riot areas, said a curfew would be relaxed at Penang during daylight hours because the situation there has returned to near normal.

But reports of arson and looting trickled in from remote rural areas where reliable sources said Malays were attacking Chinese with sharpened steel pipes, long knives and bicycle chains.

Police extended curfews in wide areas of Kedah and Perak states where limited martial law was declared Tuesday.

Romantic Views Differ

London (AP)—The Children's Film Foundation interviewed 1,500 of the estimated 17 million who attend Saturday morning movies in Britain and found the girls, but not the boys, think any decent hero should have a sweetheart. The boys' attitude, in the words of one: "You see something exciting, like cavalry. But in the end you see the general come in and start kissing his girl friend. It's really boring."

Doane Head Urges High School Students To 'Work In Future'

The president of Doane College, Dr. Philip R. Heckman, Wednesday urged about 150 Lancaster County high school students to "honor the past, understand the present and work in the future" to make the best of life.

Heckman was speaking at the annual luncheon honoring students participating in the Lancaster County Government Day. The event is sponsored by the county and the American Legion.

Heckman attacked the apathetic and backward-looking people who he said had no faith in the future or didn't care.

"The present contains a lot of trash," he said, "but we can't turn back." Heckman lashed out at those who he said were "cautious and reactionary . . . and say we have to go back to 1910 when 'men were men.' "

The president of the Crete college also attacked educators who he claimed have over the years motivated students through promises of rewards or threats of punishment.

"What we need," he suggested, "is motivation by delight. Why haven't we tried to show the world that the accumulation of knowledge can be a joy?"

Heckman challenged colleges to promote an atmosphere where the only agreement is over "the joy of learning."

"Too many college administrators want total harmony, stated Heckman, "when what the setting needs is to be rife with conflict."

Referring to colleges and universities as "factories of action," Heckman said institutions of higher education need to find answers to the world's problems before the "atomic explosion of yesterday wipes out the population explosion of tomorrow."

In a final remark, Heckman challenged the high school students attending the government participation day to "keep your guard up and go."

The attending students were representing 10 county high schools. The high school youngsters "took over" county offices for the day Wednesday, when they were given the opportunity to tour the courthouse and the county jail.

TWO HUSKERS ALL-BIG 8

Meylan, Richnafsky Picked On UPI Loop Dream Club

. . . SOONERS LEAD WITH FIVE SELECTIONS

Kansas City, Mo. (UPI) — Oklahoma's champion Sooners placed five players on the 1967 United Press International all-Big Eight football team, which for the first time included two quarterbacks in the same backfield.

Versatile Bob Warmack of Oklahoma and Kansas' Bob Douglass, who missed the Big Eight single-season total offense record by only eight yards, both were honored by UPI's panel of 24 writers and broadcasters.

In addition to Warmack, the third-ranked and Orange Bowl-bound Sooners also landed tailback Steve Owens, offensive tackle Bob Kalsu, middle guard Granville Liggins—who was voted a defensive tackle slot—and defensive end John Koller.

Kansas and Missouri each had four first team selections and Colorado, headed for the Bluebonnet Bowl, placed three. Only Iowa State failed to land a player among the top 22.

Voting for virtually all positions was heated. None of the first team selections was unanimous, although Kansas State linebacker Danny Lankas and Colorado safety Dick Anderson missed by one ballot. Kalsu and Missouri defensive back Roger Wehrli were each two votes shy.

Wayne Meylan, Nebraska's overpowering middle guard, Lankas and Kansas linebacker Mike Sweatman were the only holdovers from the 1966 all-league team.

Warmack, a frail-looking but poised 6-foot, 170-pounder, has totaled 1,261 yards through the Sooners' first nine games. As a junior, he already holds five Oklahoma passing marks and needs only 25 yards throwing and 78 total yards Saturday against Oklahoma State to set two more Sooner records.

Douglass is a bold 6-3, 206-pound junior who played the key role in Kansas' unprecedented climb from the Big Eight cellar to a tie for second place in a single season. He finished with 1,741 total yards, four times gained 200 or more yards in a single game and twice was voted Big Eight Back of the Week.

Warmack and Douglass were paired in the backfield with Owens, the lone sophomore among the top 22, and Barry Lischner, Missouri's bruising fullback.

Owens needs only 46 yards rushing against OSU Saturday to wrest the Big Eight rushing title from Nebraska fullback Dick Davis, who landed a second team backfield berth.

Split end Dave Jones of Kansas State, the league's No. 1 pass receiver, and Nebraska's Dennis Richnafsky were voted the two offensive ends. Joining Kalsu in the interior line were Missouri's Russell Washington at tackle, guards Kirk Tracy of Colorado and John Greene of Kansas and Oklahoma State center Jon Kolb.

The No. 1 defensive unit included probably the league's best two middle guards in history in Meylan and Granville Liggins, with Liggins earning a defensive tackle spot.

Meylan, a 240-pound senior and a 1966 All-America, bolstered Nebraska's outstanding defensive corps which led the nation in total defense. Liggins, a smaller but lightning-quick 216-pound senior, was the big reason the Sooners ranked No. 1 nationally in scoring defense.

Colorado's Frank Bosch was paired with Liggins at defensive tackle and Kansas' John Zook and Oklahoma's Koller were the defensive ends.

Lankas, Sweatman and Missouri's John Douglas were solid choices as the all-league linebackers, as were Anderson, Wehrli and Oklahoma State's Harry Cheatwood in the defensive secondary.

Cornelius Davis, K-State's fine junior tailback who was an all-league choice as a sophomore in 1966, made the second team backfield, which included Nebraska's Davis, Oklahoma tailback Ron Shotts and Colorado's fine sophomore quarterback, Bob Anderson.

Colorado fullback Wilmer Cooks, another 1966 all-leaguer, saw only limited service this season due to injuries.

Kearney Finishes In 16th Position

New York (AP) — San Diego State successfully defended its small college crown Wednesday as the 35-member United Press International board of coaches crowned the Aztecs National Small College champions for the second consecutive year.

Don Corvell's Aztecs swept through small college opponents, breezing to a 9-0 mark and stretching their three-season winning streak to 25 games. Their streak was ended, however, when Utah State, a major college, scored in the last 45 seconds to hand the Aztecs a 31-25 defeat last Saturday.

Kearney State of Nebraska wound up 16th in the voting despite a perfect record. Points were awarded on a 10-9-8-7 etc. basis for first through 10th places.

Aparicio Returns To Chisox In Six-Player Oriole Swap

. . . MEXICO CITY DEALING IS TORRID

Mexico City (AP) — Luis Aparicio, the veteran shortstop coveted by several clubs, wound up with the Chicago White Sox again Wednesday in a six-player baseball deal that sent pitcher Bruce Howard and infielder Don Buford to Baltimore.

The Orioles, striving to strengthen thier pitching staff, gave up the 33-year-old Aparicio, outfielder Russ Snyder and minor league first baseman-outfielder John Matias to get the right-handed Howard and handyman Buford plus right-handed relief pitcher Toger Nelson.

Baltimore had acquired John O'Donoghue, a left-handed pitcher, from Cleveland Tuesday night for knuckleball artist Eddie Fisher.

Cleveland pulled another deal Wednesday by sending Chuck Hinton to the California Angels for Jose Cardenal in a swap of right-handed hitting outfielders.

Both the Detroit Tigers and New York Yankees felt they were close to a deal for Aparicio until the final hours when the Orioles were able to get needed pitching from the White Sox for men whom Harry Dalton, Baltimore's director of player personnel, called expendable.

Hank Bauer, manager of the Orioles, said he expected Mark Belanger, a highly regarded prospect who spent much of 1967 on the Baltimore bench, to take over for the 33-year-old Aparicio. Bauer said Howard was the key man in the deal.

The New York Mets have been talking with the White Sox about a center fielder. Bing Devine, Mets' president, said he had talked about both Tommie Agee and Ken Berry. The White Sox reportedly are interested in Tommy Davis.

Despite the flurry of new trading activity, the baseball people still were buzzing about Tuesday's night Los Angeles-Minnesota swap in which such big names as catcher John Roseboro and pitchers Ron Perranoski and Bob Miller went to the Twins for shortstop Zoilo Versalles and pitcher Mudcat Grant.

The consensus seemed to be that the Twins were gambling on proven talent in a shot at the 1968 pennant.

The Dodgers, of course, are counting on Versalles and Grant to come back strong from bad years. Versalles is only 27 and Grant 32. Roseboro is 34, Perranoske 30 and Miller 28.

Both managers, Bill Rigney of the Angels and Alvin Dark of the Indians, were pleased with the Hinton-Cardenal swap.

Hinton batted .245 and Cardenal .236 last season.

Wayne Tried Harder, So He's No. 2

New York (UPI)—Sparked by O. J. Simpson, who captured the most votes, Southern California's Trojans placed the most men on the 1967 United Press International all-America football team announced Wednesday.

The national champion Trojans placed four men on the 22-man squad while Notre Dame landed three and Tennessee, Alabama and UCLA two each. The two-platoon team was chosen by direct vote of 207 sportswriters and broadcasters throughout the nation, the only honor squad so chosen.

Nebraska's Wayne Meylan polled less votes than Oklahoma's Granville Liggins and was placed on the second team as a middle guard. Joining him on the defensive platoon was Colorado's Dick Anderson.

NCAA Probes Kansas State

Manhattan, Kan. (AP) — Dr. C. Clyde Jones, chairman of the Kansas State University Athletic Council, said today the National Collegiate Athletic Association, had inquired about the phases of the University's athletic program.

The NCAA has declined comment on an investigation, reported Tuesday to have been under way at the University.

Dr. Jones said the three phases into which the NCAA had made inquiry were Coach Bob Brashner's summer baseball camp; the off-season physical fitness program and termination of financial aid to student athletes during the 1966-67 school year.

NU's Meylan, Gregory Cited At Banquet

Wayne Meylan and Ben Gregory were named top lineman and back, respectively, on this season's Nebraska football team at the annual Appreciation Banquet Wednesday night at the Cornhusker Hotel.

The awards are made annually by the Lincoln Optimists.

A full house of an estimated 500 Husker fans attended the dinner honoring this season's 6-4 football team with John McKay, coach of top-ranked and Rose Bowl-bound Southern Cal, as the featured speaker.

McKay told the NU juniors he hoped they won all their games next year and added the same hope for the Husker sophmores. "But the following year, I hope you're only nine and one," he said, referring to the 1969 season opener that has Southern Cal playing the Huskers at Memorial Stadium.

The program was delayed nearly 30 minutes while those attending the dinner watched the presentation of the Football Writers Association All-America team, of which Meylan was a part, on the Bob Hope television show.

AAU Swimming Meet Given To Lincoln Again

. . . SET FOR AUG. 1-4 AT WOODS POOL

New Orleans—For the second time, Lincoln has been awarded the National AAU men's and women's swimming and diving championships.

The decision in favor of the Capital City was made Wednesday at the National AAU convention held here this week at the Roosevelt Hotel.

Woods Pool will be the site of the championships, which will be held August 1-4, 1968, and will be watched by the national because the Olympic trials in Los Angeles are scheduled just three weeks later.

Also making bids were Albuquerque, Maumee (Toledo), Ohio, and Santa Clara, Calif.

Santa Clara withdrew in favor of Lincoln and Albuquerque couldn't meet the requirements with the first pool it submitted and had to bid on the basis of two other pools.

Actually three factors helped Lincoln, said Wendell Groth, Lincoln swimming promoter and Midwestern AAU delegate, who is attending the convention with Robert Steuwig, Lincoln Chamber of Commerce public relations director, and Steve Cook of the Midwestern AAU and Lincoln Swim Club.

One of the reasons is the Woods facilities and Lincoln's hospitality as host for the 1966 championships. Another is the city's central location, with the 1968 indoor championships being held on the East Coast and the Olympic Trials on the West Coast. Just one cross-country trip for the participants is necessary with Lincoln as host.

But Groth said, "The really interesting story is that the roller-skating people (Roller Skating Rink Operators of America), agreed to move their dates in order not to have two national championships in Lincoln at the same time.

"They said that Lincoln was such a fine host city for them that they would like to come again and again and again."

The North American Amateur Roller Skating Championships were originally scheduled for July 27-August 6 at Pershing Auditorium, but were moved back to August 6-18 so that the nation's best swimmers and divers could come to Nebraska.

There will be between 3,000 and 4,000 people, including about 700 participants, who are expected to attend the aquatic championships, Groth said.

He added, "The diving committee voted en masse for us, and Santa Clara withdrew for us because they liked our facilities so much." That's a pretty good recommendation considering that Santa Clara Swim Club coach George Haines was a 1964 Olympic coach and will be so again at Mexico City next year.

The total voting showed 66 ballots for Lincoln, 45 for Toledo and six for Albuquerque.

Peru Cagers Win Tourney

McPherson, Kan. (AP)—Peru State of Nebraska won the second straight championship Wednesday night in the two-year-old McPherson Basketball Invitational, stopping Kansas Wesleyan 97-87 in the title game.

Wayne Heine paced the Peru attack, sinking five buckets and dropping 16 of 17 at the gift line for 26 points. He combined with Tom Patton, George Moore and Leon Portrey in the rebound department as the quartet accounted for 32 off the boards.

Peru's sharpshooting at the free throw line spelled the major difference as the Nebraskan's dropped 28 of 48 for 58%, compared to the Wesleyan effort of 35 of 74 for 37%.

Patton, Moore and Heine were named to the nine-player all-tournament team selected by coaches.

St. Mary of the Plains edged McPherson 74-70 in overtime for third place and Bethany of Kansas stopped Sterling 79-61 for fifth place.

OU's Owens Gunning For Rushing Crown

. . . NEEDS 46 YARDS AGAINST O-STATE

Kansas City, Mo. — Oklahoma's tailbacking Steve Owens maintains, "You've gotta be there quick, or pow! The lights go out."

Owens will have to be in the hole quickly Saturday or the lights will go out on his chance to win the Big Eight Conference rushing title in his sophomore year.

Owens, a slashing stumbling, powerful runner, does have an opening to the rushing championship though he is now trailing Nebraska's Dick Davis by 45 yards, 717 to 672. Owens has a game against Oklahoma State left. Davis, with his 127 against the Sooners Thanksgiving Day, finished then.

However, the same kind of schedule-created opening is before Owens' positional teammate, Ron Shotts, too. Shotts needs 100 yards to slip past Davis (plus another yard for every yard Owens might gain over his needed 45).

Shotts' task might seemingly be beyond reason against the stiff Cowboy defense; however, the Sooner senior has proved the last two years that it can be done. As a sophomore, he amassed 163 yards on 28 headache-producing thrusts. Last year, he hit into the Cowboy tackles for 149 more. Tommy McDonald, in 1956, was the last from Oklahoma to win.

While Owens is still in the rushing chase, he has already virtually clinched the scoring title, taking it away from Colorado's oft-injured Wilmer Cooks.

Settled at the last minute was the punt returning top spot when Benny Goodwin sprinted past Colorado's Charles Greer with an 83-yard burst heading a 114-yard day. This gives the Cowboy sophomore a nine-yard lead over Greer, who is finished with one game to go.

Also wrapped up is a passing title for Nebraska's Frank Patrick and a total offense championship for Kansas' Bob Douglass. Patrick, twirling out 290 aerial lengths against Oklahoma, put his seasonal total at 1,449, the most yards ever by a Big Eight sophomore and the third most in league history.

Douglass pushed his total offense accumulation to 1,741, just eight yards off the Big Eight's seasonal mark. This was the first league total-offense title for a Jayhawk since Ray Evans won in 1947.

Also assured of Big Eight statistical titles are three from Kansas State, Dave Jones, Bob Coble, and Ossie Cain. Jones, runner-up receiver last year, won with 46 catches for 561 yards, edging Colorado's Monte Huber by one.

Thus, Jones becomes only the second in Big Eight history to receive for over 500 yards twice. His career total, 1,282 with another season to go, now stands fourth on the all-time conference list, just 13 yards back of Iowa State's Tom Busch, who finished with 1,295, though he never won a receiving championship.

Coble finished with a punting average of 42.7. Cain turned to returning kick-offs and finished with 414 yards, putting him out of reach of the rest.

Dana Looking For Shooters

No one ever accused Dana's basketball team of being great shooters — not even coach Dale Lemon.

"Our glaring weakness has been our shooting ability," admits Lemon, "and that's the name of the game."

In order to correct this fault, he hopes, Lemon is putting Hebron junior Dean Krueger (6-5) back at the post "where he belongs" and counting on two juco transfers — Rex Mahlman (Fairbury) and Steve Lane (Reedley, Calif.).

"Rebounding is our number one strength," says Lemon. "Defensively we haven't been too bad, but we need to complement it with an offense. We hope to present a better attack this winter."

Seven lettermen will be on hand to try to improve on last season's 5-16 record.

Husker-Sooner Crowd Was 6th Largest Of Week

The Nebraska - Oklahoma crowd of 60,048 at Lincoln Thanksgiving Day was the sixth largest throng to attend a collegiate football game last week.

The National Collegiate sports services said the Miami-Notre Dame attendance of 77,275 in the Orange Bowl topped the nation and was the largest assembly since 1963.

Nebraska finished in the top 10 attendance list during each of the Cornhuskers' five home games this year. The top mark was the Colorado battle when a record 65,766 fans jammed into Memorial Stadium.

Links' 'Nucleus' Will Need Help From A Few 'Particles'

. . . TO IMPROVE CAGE ATTACK

Lincoln High basketball coach Alden Johnson, in trying to sum up this year's squad, is like the guy who discovered the first atom — the nucleus is there but what about all the particles?

"We have three returning lettermen who are solid," Johnson says, "but the success we have this season will depend entirely on the ability of the players coming up to play varsity competition."

The Links return Joe Casmer, last year's leading scorer with a 14.7 average and Charles Moore and Bryan Grosscup who both hit the bucket at a 5.6 clip.

Casmer, who has two years of varsity experience going into the upcoming campaign, scored two highs for the Links last season as he posted 25 points against Omaha Central and compiled 10 field goals against three Omaha schools — Central, Westside, and Bellevue.

"Casmer has worked harder in getting ready for the season than he's ever worked before," Johnson commented.

"His defensive play and rebounding has really improved.

"It was at least halfway through the season last year before he really picked up on his rebounding."

Johnson expects to gain needed help in rebounding from Ron Swanson (6-4), Dan McCauley (6-3) and Grant Colling (6-4).

Jay Weyers (5-11) is being looked at for a forward post and Steve Holroyd (5-6) and Stan Johnston (5-11) are presently working as guards.

"Any of these fellows are capable of breaking into the starting lineup," Johnson remarked. "I feel we have some fine players up from our reserve unit and they all have a chance to make a position."

The Links finished 5-11 last season but wound up second in the Trans-Nebraska Conference.

Lincoln High will again have one of the state's toughest schedules as it goes against Omaha's Creighton Prep, Central, Boys Town, Westside and South.

Besides the Lincoln city foes, the Links play outstate opponents Columbus North Platte, Grand Island and Hastings.

Luedtke, Bross Top Wayne Team

. . . FROSH TOP RUSHER

Wayne — Jerry Luedtke of Omaha and Dave Bross of Minneapolis were the most valuable players on defense and offense for Wayne State College football this fall.

Coach John Jermier announced their selection by the team and also its choice of honorary season captains, Bross, Roger Parr of Scribner and Ron Fox of Ponca.

Luedtke, a halfback, is the first sophomore to win the MVP honor at Wayne in years. Bross, a defensive end, is a senior.

Selection of sophomore Luedtke reflects the squad's youth, Jermier noted. In fact, freshman halfback Sam Singleton of Elizabeth, N.J., the team's leading rusher, was a close contender for the offensive MVP title — "the first freshman even to receive a vote in my six years at Wayne," Jermier said.

Luedtke ranked second in rushing with 489 yards, led scoring with 54 points, and ranked third in pass receiving.

Irish Lead Dunkel List

. . . USC SECOND

By DICK DUNKEL

While other leaders were falling by the wayside, Notre Dame has backed into the college football rating lead, according to the Dunkel Index.

The Irish (8-2) edged No. 4 Miami, Fla., 24-22, last Friday night to bring their net scoring superiority to 20.3 points per game. This has been accomplished against opposition indexed at 88.9 for the rating total of 109.2, now the nation's highest.

Last week's leader, Tennessee (8-1), lost rating in a 17-7 win over Kentucky and now is tied for second place with Southern California (9-1).

Following Miami, in the fourth place, are these leaders along with their records and scores of last week:

Louisiana St. (6-3-1), 41-27 over Tulane; Florida St. (7-2-1), 21-16 over Florida; Georgia (7-3), 21-14 over Georgia Tech; Penn St. (8-2), 42-6 over Pittsburgh; Oregon St. (7-2-1), didn't play; Oklahoma (8-1), 21-14 over Nebraska.

All 650 college teams set their own ratings through progressive averaging of scoring margin combined with opposition rating. Leaders stand as follows:

LSE, Link Swim Clubs Look Tough

. . . ROCKETS GOOD, TOO

By JOHN HINES
Star Sports Writer

Just as they usually have been, Lincoln Southeast and Lincoln High will likely be top notch swimming teams this winter and Lincoln Northeast won't be any slouch.

Lincoln East, though pretty inexperienced, is already the best in one department, that of owning the best home pool, for the Spartan tank with its seating capacity of 1,200 will be the site of both the Intracity and State meets next February.

Southeast lost 13 lettermen, including state backstroke champ Dave Schmidt and 10 others who scored in the state meet, but returns a dozen, including two state champs, Stan Ewing and Kelly Cook.

Ewing is a prep All-American with his 1:02.0 in the 100-yard breaststroke in last year's state meet, where he also won the 200-yard individual medley in 2:05.1, another state record. He won the century breaststroke as a sophomore, too, and could try out for the Olympics next year.

Cook won the state championship in the 400-yard freestyle as a sophomore a year ago, churning 4:11.3 for a Nebraska record.

Others who placed in the state for Southeast, which lost in a bid for a ninth straight state title because of a new scoring system down to 12 places instead of six, were Mitch Zeman, eighth in the 100-yard breaststroke, and diver Larry Spilker, also eighth.

Despite all the returning lettermen, coach Don Copas is pessimistic about the Knights' outlook. "It will be a rebuilding year," he says, referring to the losses. "Our freestyle relay team is all gone, we lost depth in the butterfly and backstroke and we lost everything in the 200 and 400-yard freestyles."

Dan Dermyer heads a cast of seven returning lettermen for Lincoln High, which duals Southeast Jan. 9 in the Knights' pool. Dermyer was Trans-Nebraska champ in the 100-yard backstroke and was fourth in the state in both that event and the 200-yard medley.

"We'll have a little better overall balance," says coach Gene Cotter. Several of the Links did well for Cotter's Elks team last summer and promising butterflyer Mark Bryan moves up to the varsity as a sophomore. Last year the Links were third in the state behind Omaha Westside and Southeast.

State diving champ Jim Hunt is a big loss for the Links, as are sprinter Phil Lind and breaststroker Marty Harris, both state runners-up.

At Northeast, coach Ken Wall says, "We probably don't have the overall depth to make it a race against the good ones, but I figure overall we'll win more than we lose." (The Rockets were eighth in the state a year ago and usually gear for a strong late-season finish.)

Top mermen for Northeast are Jim Pickerell, second in the 50-yard freestyle and sixth in the 100 in the state; Sam Knight, fourth in the 100-yard butterfly and eighth in the 50-yard freestyle, and diver Darrell Jones, seventh in Nebraska last winter.

There are only two seniors on East's 40-man squad and coach Dennis Vokolek realistically states, "We're trying to build depth in all events; we're not completely inexperienced."

Top prospects for the Spartans are brothers Jim and Joe Arkfeld, Jim in the medley and backstroke and Joe in the sprints.

Chamber Supports Airport Authority

. . . IN FIGHT WITH CAB

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln Chamber of Commerce directors Wednesday threw their support behind the position of the Lincoln Airport Authority in its current fight with the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB).

The authority, with city approval, has decided to ask the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, as a final remedy, to force the CAB to consider Lincoln's air service needs at the same time it hears the service to Omaha case.

What might be a final and appealable order was issued by the CAB last week, ruling out consideration of Lincoln's needs and granting the Capitol City only an intervenor's role in the Omaha case.

'Drift Back'

Airport authority attorney Chauncey Barney told the chamber board that if the city is prejudiced by an early upgrading of Omaha commercial air service without an appropriate and timely grant to Lincoln, "Lincoln won't stay in the same place —it will drift back."

He asked for a united front —city government, the airport authority and Lincoln's business leadership — in presenting the case to the CAB.

Chamber president Walter Nolte said there is no "dog-in-the-manger tactic" involved in Lincoln's attempt to gain concurrent hearing with Omaha. "We need improved service," he said.

Plea Heard

The chamber board also heard a plea from Belmont and Cornhusker Hwy. area interests to keep No. 14th St. open in the future.

Closing of 14th has been recommended in the streets and highways committee work program for 1968. The chamber board has not yet approved the program.

George Frampton of the Cornhusker Bank asked the board to consider the recommendation and find an alternative other than "closing this important thoroughfare."

The street provides thousands of north Lincolnites with easy access downtown, he said.

Reduction

Frampton declared that since the 14th St. bridge over Oak Creek washed out in June, there has been "a reduction in business activity" north of the bridge.

Chamber directors used the regular monthly meeting as an occasion to honor the Journal-Star Printing Co. on its 100th anniversary.

Publishers Walter White, Joe W. Seacrest and Fred Seacrest attended the luncheon.

In other business the chamber board:

—Approved in concept an "Ambassador Program" designed to establish a better membership retention rate in the chamber.

Three Calls

Each director will make three calls a month to member firms in an effort to maintain a better rapport between the chamber management and the membership group.

Chamber staffer Ben Prieb noted that 100 new memberships were acquired last year, but 90 old members dropped out — resulting in a $5,200 loss of membership dues.

—Welcomed new members Dick Meyers, liquor dealer, and Glen Underwood, K-Mart manager.

Auto Worker Leaders To Boycott AFL-CIO's Convention

© New York Times Service

Washington — The leadership of the United Auto Workers Union has decided to boycott next month's convention of the AFL-CIO.

Authoritative sources said Wednesday the union's top officers, who have been feuding with the labor federation, decided Tuesday not to send a delegation to the session because they were occupied with contract negotiations at the General Motors Corp.

The policy-making UAW executive board was expected to ratify the leadership decision Thursday in Detroit, adding to the union's growing estrangement with the AFL-CIO.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, as well as other auto union leaders have accused the AFL-CIO of being "the complacent custodian of the status quo." They had hoped to wage a convention battle for their own "reform" program, and had threatened to pull out of the federation unless changes were made.

The sources, however, said Wednesday the union leaders decided to skip the convention because Reuther and some top officers would be engaged in intensive contract talks during the week-long session, which begins Dec. 7 in Miami eBach, Fla.

The sources noted that Reuther promised the union membership last spring that he would not engage in a battle with AFL-CIO President George Meany until the negotiations were completed. They also said that prolonged bargaining with the Ford Motor Co. and the Chrysler Corp. had prevented the union from preparing for a fight.

No Explanation

The sources gave no explanation of why the union leaders had decided to boycott the convention entirely, since only some officers might be involved in negotiations. But the union apparently was unwilling to fight without Reuther on hand, and seemed to believe that sending a token delegation would imply that the UAW was endorsing policies adopted by the convention.

Reuther has gained little support for his program from other labor leaders, and it was apparent that he would have been badly beaten by the Meany forces in any convention fight. Some labor leaders suggested privately that he had decided to stay home because he was afraid of losing.

But auto union sources strongly denied this, saying Reuther still planned to push his program, and probably would seek a showdown next year in a meeting with the AFL-CIO executive council.

UAW sources said no decision had been made yet on whether to withdraw from the AFL-CIO and that none seemed likely until there was a full confrontation.

NU Librarian Chosen

A University of Nebraskan librarian, Cosette Kies, has been named assistant program coordinator in the divisional services department of the American Library Association. Miss Kies, a University staff member since 1963, begins her new job Jan. 1.

This represents an increase of $1,349,769 in sales for the same period last year. Earnings reached 72 cents on all outstanding shares of both Class A and common stock.

City Power Unit Urges Joining CPPD In Plant

The City Power Advisory Board Wednesday endorsed a recommendation that Lincoln consider becoming part owner of the Consumers Public Power District's proposed nuclear generating plant near Brownville and part owner of a related 345 kilovolt transmission line.

Engineering consultants recently recommended the step as a preferred method of providing the city with electricity to meet future needs.

The power board recommended that Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf appoint a team to negotiate with Consumers on Lincoln acquiring a one-eighth interest in the 778-megawatt Brownville plant.

The board also advised the mayor to sign a memorandum of understanding with consumers to indicate the city will negotiate for part ownership of the planned line stretching from Brownville to Hallam to Lincoln and on to Ft. Calhoun, near Omaha.

The consultants have said Lincoln electricity users could save $77.9 million between 1972 and 1985 by pursuing the part ownership plan.

The plan also suggests the installation of gas peak shaving units within the city.

The board withheld a decision on the Lincoln Electric System installing its own peak shaving units until it can explore the possibility of purchasing peak needs from the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation or other sources.

Power Board chairman R. E. Campbell said the city must take action on recommendations contained in the engineering study if it wants to benefit from potential low-cost power in the future.

the plan involving part ownership in Consumers proposed Brownville facility and the related transmission line was rated the most feasible and economic of several proposals to acquire future power needs outlined in the study.

Apparent Low Auto Bidder Is Gotfredson

Gotgredson Motors was the apparent low bidder Wednesday to furnish 16 new cars to the city — nine of them police vehicles.

The low bid on all units was $29,449, followed by DuTeau Chevrolet, $31,227, and O'Shea-Rogers, $32,868. DeBrown Auto Sales bid $14,946 on seven cars and Quality Motors bid $8,743 on four units.

M&H Valve Co. of Anniston, Ala., sumitted the highest discount percentage on an estimated $150,000 annual order for fire hydrants and valves.

M&H vid 34.5% on the valve and 29% on the hydrants. Other bidders were Western Supply, 24.26% on both items and Capital Supply, 24.10%.

The percentage will be applied against a nationally advertised price list to determine net cost to the city.

Other bids received by the city Wednesday:

—Alley paving district, alley between Baldwin and Huntington, 47th to 48th: Dobson Bros. Construction Co., $3,989; Pioneer Paving Co., $4,042.

Merchandise Totaling $650 Is Recovered

Lincoln police Tuesday recovered over $650 in merchandise apparently shoplifted from two Lincoln department stores.

The merchandise included several suits, shirts and other men's clothing valued at $266 from the J. C. Penney Co., and women's clothing and several cigarette lighters taken from Sears Roebuck and Co. The items from Sears were valued at $368, according to police.

Police said the articles were discovered by a representative of Scott's Pancake Shoppe in the parking lot at the pancake house at 13th and L.

Price Fetched By Art Called Unusually High

By JOHN L. HESS

© New York Times Service

Paris — At La Vente de Ma Tante Wednesday afternoon, a Sisley went for $51,000, a Renoir for $33,500 and a Toulouse-Lautrec, which you would not necessarily hang where your maiden aunt might see it, fetched $16,400.

The prices were, according to dealers, unusually high, possibly reflecting the same fear of devaluation that has recently caused many people to buy gold. Another unusual aspect was that all 19 pictures sold, for a total of $102,000, had been pawned and not reclaimed.

Ma Tante, or sometimes Tante Marie, is the familiar name here for the public pawnshop. Some people call it, without knowing why, the Mont de Piete, which shows the persistence of some phrases. That is still the name of the pawnshop founded by the church in Italy in medieval times to combat usury.

The institution was implanted here just before the French Revolution. But soon after the revolution, pawning became a public service and a state monopoly under the name Credit Municipal, and has remained so ever since.

If the loan shark is virtually unknown in France, it is thanks to Ma Tante. Her chain of 22 establishments will lend from $2 up on anything salable, at a prorated cost of roughly 10% a year, which is cheap by European standards.

While three-quarters of all loans come to less than $40, pledges of $20,000 and more are not unknown. Well-to-do people will pawn the family jewels, an ermine wrap or a Renoir to get quick cash — and cheap storage. Many used to pawn their cars for the winter, until the garage became overcrowded and Ma Tante put her foot down.

At Wednesday's sale, more than 200 buyers crowded the room. Bidding was fast and nearly every item went at more than double the advance estimate, which presumably approximated the loan granted on the picture.

A disgruntled collector, who left empty-handed, said, "They think they're getting bargains!" But the buyers were generally professionals, among them a man from the Perls Gallery in New York, who bought the Toulouse-Lautrec, and an agent for an American museum, who got a little drawing by David.

It was apparent that American art buying has been recovering. A dealer observed also that bidding on "name" art had picked up since the pound was devalued.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

In the cool Mexican morning we catch a one-peso taxi on the tree-lined Reforma. Spinning around the statued glorieta traffic circles.

The last Aztec Emperor looks stonily down on the modern city; Columbus discovers the New World; a Spanish king sits a prancing horse.

At the edges of the old city, the street narrows, squeezed between ancient palaces and churches. And here we get off. To have coffee in an old courtyard. To walk in the antique streets. And buy lottery tickets.

"This is a pretty number, Senor. A lucky number today. One million pesos!"

The street sellers of lottery tickets have me pegged.

I am Saturday's child. "Saturday's child works hard for a living."

I would like to win a million pesos and quit working.

I would buy myself a sarape and a big hat and flake out under a pepper tree.

Tourists would come by and take my picture. I would charge them five pesos for such a picturesque shot.

I mean with a million pesos I wouldn't actually quit working. I would just go in this attractive easy-going little business for myself.

"May the Virgin send you luck, Senor." In Mexico we depend on the saints to rub a little luck on our lottery tickets.

In the U.S. this might be considered sacrilegious. But in Mexico we expect the saints to lend a helping hand to a man with a handful of lottery tickets.

We also pick lottery tickets by dreams. The maid plays the lottery by dreams.

"I knew a man from my country who dreamed of three white hens, Senor. He played 353533. He won the 500,000 peso first prize!"

"Why did he throw in the fives, Senor?" I asked.

"Because five is lucky, Senor."

The lottery is run by the government. There are hundreds of winning numbers.

The list of winners is printed in the newspapers.

We buy lottery tickets by the piece or by the whole thing—the entero. Each ticket has 20 pieces. You can buy as many as you want. They tear off what you buy.

If you have the entero and the winning number, you get the whole prize. But if you have bought a few pieces, you get only the percentage of what you bought.

Dario Borzani who runs the elegant Rivoli Restaurant once bought five pieces. He won and got $20,000. If he had bought the entero, he would have gotten $80,000.

Things like that can almost ruin you.

I have never won. But a couple of times I got my money back. Two special numbers are drawn. If your ticket ends in this number, you get your money back.

A whole list of smaller prizes are drawn.

When the morning papers arrive, we look first for the numbers that return your money. Then we look for the first prize. Then we run down the list in numerical order to where our number should be.

After we have discovered we did not win, we have another coffee. And buy a ticket for the next day.

"This number—282235—is a good number, Senor. It is a holy number. Luck will follow it."

"How is it holy?"

"The twos, Senor. That would be for the two churches that have been built on the site of the Aztec temple. The three would be for the Trinity. The five is the usual number of times to say the Rosary."

"What about the eight?"

"There must be a good thing about it," said the lottery man. "Though I cannot think what. But it is surrounded by so many holy numbers, it must be."

There is no better fortune than contemplating tomorrow's luck. Buy early and enjoy yourself.

Hollings Give $97,000 For NU's Med Library

Omaha — A retired Omaha construction company executive and his wife have made a $97,000 contribution to the Library of Medicine Fund of the University of Nebraska Medical Center.

The donors are George C. and Irene Holling, both graduates of the University of Nebraska.

Holling is a retired vice president and director of the Peter Kiewit Sons' Company of Omaha.

He received a degree in civil engineering from NU in 1925, the same year his wife was graduated from the College of Arts and Sciences with a major in physical education.

Holling joined the Kiewit organization in 1932 as an estimating engineer. In that year he worked on the construction of Conkling Hall at the medical center. Conkling Hall served for many years as the School of Nursing.

Directed Defense Jobs

During World War II, Holling directed many of his company's large defense projects, such as the Martin Bomber Plant at Fort Crook, Neb., and the Kansas Ordnance Plant at Parsons, Kan.

He was manager of Project Bluejeay (the Thule Air Force Base in Greenland), and the "billion-dollar" Atomic Energy Commission project at Portsmouth, Ohio.

The Holings have a son, Douglas, living in Golden, Colo., and two daughters, Mrs. Jeannette Shaw, Littleton, Colo., and Mrs. Darece Patterson, Mt. Vernon, Wash.

Their contribution, made through the University Foundation, raised the total of the fund drive to $300,000. The goal is $350,000.

Dr. Leon S. McGoogan, general chairman of the drive, said he expects the goal to be reached by the final date of the drive—Dec. 31.

The $350,000, along with $900,000 appropriated by the State Legislature, will be used as matching funds for a federal grant which has received tentative approval.

The cost of the new library, to be built atop the Basic Sciences building now under construction, is estimated at $2,400,000.

Outlook For Second Bridge At Sioux City Appears Dim

Sioux City, Iowa (UPI) — Members of the Iowa Highway Commission have indicated to city fathers they are not too optimistic about a second Missouri River bridge to link Sioux City with South Sioux City, Neb.

The city has sought to have the proposed bridge linked with the Interstate System.

However, in a meeting here, commissioners pointed out that Sioux City is only one of 17 possible bridge sites to be studied under the new toll bridge act. Omaha is also among the cities being considered.

The commission also met with members of the Woodbury County board and the Sioux City Chamber of Commerce. The commissioners told the two groups that although there is a need for a proposed Port Neal Interstate interchange, the Federal Bureau of Public Roads rejected it because the interstate system must be completed befor any approval of additions.

Urges Precedent

Commission chairman Robert Berry of Danbury, Iowa, suggested setting a precedent with the interchange by providing 50% of the funds. Concurring with the idea was Commissioner John Hansen of Manning, Iowa.

Commissioner Harry Bardley, Jr., of Des Moines, however, said such a proposal would have to be submitted to all commission members, and two were absent at the meeting.

Bradley did not immediately endorse the 50-50 proposal, saying he would first like to know what tax revenue would be realized by the counties from property to be serviced by the proposed interchange.

Woodbury County Supervisor Robert Clarlson said the board would give approval to the proposal if the cost of the Port Neal interchange would remain close to the estimated $211,000.

State Drive OnAmblyopia Arrest Slated

Hastings (UPI) — The Nebraska Optometric Association announced Wednesday it will work with the Nebraska Junior Chamber of Commerce in a campaign to arrest amblyopia among children in the Cornhusker state.

Amblyopia is a visual defect, usually the result of the lack of functional development of the eye. It is not correctible with glasses alone and can lead to loss of vision.

Dr. Wade Nyquist, president of the Nebraska Optometrists, said the Jaycees have made the detection and treatment of amblyopia in children a national project.

A pilot survey will be held for children in Jefferson County at the Central School building in Fairbury Saturday. Members of the Fairbury Junior Chamber of Commerce auxiliary will participate in registering and screening all youngsters. The youngsters, ages three to five, then will be tested.

Surveys Outstate

A similar survey was held in North Platte and other cities independently of the national Jaycee project during the past year.

Dr. Nyquist said, "it has been determined that amblyopia is almost 100% preventable. But tragically, because so few parents are aware of the danger, we are still finding only a small fraction of these children in time to save their sight."

He said another reason the program is effective is that Jaycees and their wives plan a "follow up" to the actual eye exams to see that treatment has started.

Omaha Hearing On Annexation Attracts Many

Omaha (AP) — Speakers against annexation of Millard by Omaha had considerable moral support during a two-hour hearing before the Omaha City Council. About 275 attended.

State Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha told the council "I hope you are not seeking to make these voters your constituents. I'm not sure it would be a wise move politically."

Proud said there is only one issue involved in the proposed takeover: "Should one city annex another without giving that city the right to vote?" He said no state except Nebraska has a law allowing such merger.

Though Omaha could annex Millard at its present rate of movement by Dec. 22, Millard is going ahead with plans for a Jan. 2 home rule charter referendum. The Millard Council announced places for the referendum voting. With a home rule charter, Millard could be annexed only by a vote of the people.

Both Revenues, Expenses Rise For Consumers

Columbus (AP) — Consumers Public Power District reported Wednesday that operating revenues as well as operating expenses increased during the year ended Sept. 30, as compared with the previous 12-month period.

Operating revenues totaled $26.3 million and operating expenses totaled $19.5 million. Other income amounted to $1.6 million.

The balance remaining after the payment of debt service amounted to $3.4 million, available for capital expenditures and other income deductions.

The 12-month analysis is prepared quarterly by R. W. Beck and Associates, utility analysts and engineers.

Berkeley Chemist To Lecture At NU

Dr. Andrew J. Streitwieser Jr., professor of chemistry at the University of California at Berkeley, has been awarded the annual Nebraska lectureship of the Nebraska section of the American Chemical Society.

He will deliver his formal lecture at 8 p.m., Dec. 12, in Avery Laboratory at the University of Nebraska on "The Acidity of Hydrocarbons."

Internationally recognized for his contributions in the theoretical areas of organic chemistry, Streitwieser, 40, is one of the youngest chemists to be honored by the Nebraska group.

ANDREW STREITWIESER

The last two recipients of the award, the late Prof. Peter Debye and Dr. Vincent DuVigneaue, both of Cornell University, were Nobel Prize winners.

Streitwieser has made contributions in the areas of stereochemistry, reaction mechanisms, isotope effects, carbanion chemistry, and in the application of molecular orbital theory in organic chemistry.

Author of more than 40 publications in the last five years, the Berkeley professor's latest work has been in the application of quantum mechanics to organic chemistry.

Among his previous honors are National Science Foundation science faculty fellowship, the California section award of the American Chemical Society and the 1967 American Chemical Society award in petroleum chemistry.

He received his undergraduate and graduate degrees at Columbia University and was an Atomic Energy Commission postdoctoral fellow at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Livestock Feeders Eye Pollution Control Plan

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

Grand Island—A plan that would require a license or permit to operate a feedlot in Nebraska received the attention of livestock feeders attending the 1967 Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association convention here Wednesday.

Occupying the major attention of the feeders was the proposed criteria of the State Water Pollution Control Council on recommendations made to control agricultural waste and particularly as it would apply to feedlots.

T. A. Filipi of Lincoln, executive secretary of the Nebraska Water Pollution Control Council, presented the feeders with council proposals that suggest any confined feeding for 300 head or more of livestock or any animal feeding operation having a water pollution potential would be required to register with the Nebraska State Department of Health prior to construction and operation of a feedlot. Existing confined feeding operations would also be required to register with the State Department of Health, Filipi says.

If, in the opinion of the health department, a feeding operation constitutes a water pollution potential the operator shall provide water pollution control facilities in accordance with plans and specifications approved by the health department.

Feedlot permits shall be revokable for cause on 30 days written notice, with the operator of the feedlot involved allowed to finish feeding existing animals in the lot.

Following discussions between Nebraska livestock feeders and the Water Pollution Council, public hearings will be scheduled, Filipi says.

A final draft of the council's proposal will then be submitted to the attorney general, secretary of state and governor for approval and will be presented to the next Legislature for ratification, Filipi says.

South Dakota and Kansas adopted similar measures for feedlot waste control July 1, 1967, while the Colorado legislature defeated a like measure.

The feeders were told that the sólid waste production of one cow equals that of 16.4 people.

Girdner Crofoot, feedlot operator from Strong City, Kan. says that, while the state of Kansas was a leader in this field it is a "real tough long-range problem" where Kansas has only scratched the surface after six years planning for feedlot waste disposal.

The Nebraska recommendations are patterened after the Kansas proposal, Filipi said.

Nebraska livestock feeders are expected to request representation on the Water Pollution Council and to seek some modification in the length of time required for compliance by feeders.

Rail Commission Sets Hearing Date On Rate Increase

The State Railway Commission has set a Feb. 8, 1968, hearing date on four railroads' request to raise passenger rates five per cent.

The four railroads are the Chicago and Northwestern, the Burlington, the Union Pacific and the Rock Island and Pacific.

Commissioner Fred Peterson said the application for the hike "came as a complete surprise to us. In reviewing the application we couldn't find any reason why."

Peterson said the companies are expected to supply some exhibits by Dec. 15 which may give some reasons for the request.

The railroads asked for the rate increase to become effective Dec. 1 but the hearing was not set until Feb. 8, Peterson said.

Flood Death Toll In Portugal Rises

Lisbon (AP)—The death toll from Portugal's floods last weekend rose to 427 Wednesday as workers uncovered more bodies.

The toll, reported by municipal officials in the flood ravaged area of central Portugal, was expected to climb still further.

Uldrich's Honored

Fairmont — Mr. and Mrs. Myron Uldrich of Geneva were recognized as the Fillmore County conservation award-winning family here Wednesday evening at the 20th-annual Fillmore Country Soil and Water Conservation District Awards Banquet.

Plaques for centennial graft planting were presented to Robert H. Rath, Sutton and Francis Kimbrough, Geneva.

Keith Theobald of Ohiowa was awarded a special plaque for a 10-year-term as a county supervisor by Chet Ellis of Libery, vice president of the Nebraska Soil and Water Conservation Districts.

Talking Letters Sent Overseas By Red Cross

Sessions begin this week. The Red Cross office is taking appointments for Monday, Wednesday and Fridays, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., and Saturday, 9 a.m. to noon, until Dec. 16, the last day to make the recording.

Conditions Of Loan To England Harsh

© New York Times Service

Paris — Britain agreed Wednesday to harsh conditions to obtain a $1.4 billion standby credit for defense of the pound at its devalued rate of $2.40.

The credits are being granted by the International Monetary Fund, an international pool of gold and currencies used to help countries in precarious financial situations.

Not since France needed international help in 1957 has a major industrial country been forced to give up so much sovereignty in economic affairs.

The loan, nearly two weeks in the preparatory stages, was given final approval Wednesday by the creditor countries, members of the so-called Group of 10 leading industrial countries.

Britain agreed to the conditions in a letter of intent depositied with the IMF, and signed by former Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan.

The creditor countries discussed the conditions with Britain at a day-long meeting punctuated by the dramatic announcement from London that Callaghan had resigned.

Promises

Britain promised to:

—Slash a budget deficit that was to reach 1.9 billion pounds ($4.56 billion) in the next financial year to 1 billion pounds ($2.4 billion).

—Prevent the money supply in Britain from rising faster next year than this year.

—Put through legislation earlier than she wants to get rid of a three per cent export subsidy. The British had previously said they would abolish it April 1. This did not satisfy some creditors, particularly France. A British source said his government agreed to introduce the legislation before Christmas.

—Achieve a balance-of-payments surplus running at an annual rate of 200 million pounds ($480 million) by the second half of next year and in the first part of 1969 to get this up to 500 million pounds ($1.2 billion).

—Consult with IMF officials as specific periods to insure that if the balance-of-payments objectives are not met, even more drastic measures will be taken. These meetings will take place next February, July and November.

All these measures are aimed at guaranteeing the success of the 14.3% British devaluation announced Nov. 18.

Gap

The devaluation cheapened the cost of British exports and increased the cost of goods imported into England, which should have the effect of producing a payments surplus. However, the immediate effect will be to worsen the deficit because the British will be paying more for imported goods before they are able to get the benefits of expanded export markets.

This is why the standby credits are needed.

To complete the loan the IMF had to borrow the equivalent of $525 million from the 10 creditor countries. In turn, the creditor countries were given a major say in the policies of the debtor country to insure that the money would be paid back.

10 Listed

The 10 are Belgium, Canada, France, West Germany, Italy, Japan, the Netherlands Sweden, Britain and the United States.

There had been talk that the French might try to block the loan by imposing stiffer conditions than the British could accept. But, according to conference sources, the French did not attempt to put any obstacles in the way, apart from their insistence that the export subsidy be removed before April 1.

The British are now expected to draft a detailed plan of reforms that they intend to carry out to insure success of the devaluation. These would be drawn up in close collaboration with the IMF.

Doctors Try To Safeguard Their Rights

Houston, Tex. (AP) — The American Medical Association moved Wednesday to safeguard what it considers a doctor's right to bill his patient directly and to use his own judgment in treatment, free of outside standards.

Many of the actions taken at the just-concluded winter meeting of the AMA's legislative House of Delegates reflect a common concern by the doctors on federal interference in medical practice.

They worry over possible encroachment into what they call the doctor-patient relationship and procedures in caring for patients under federal programs such as medicare and medicaid.

Medicare is health care for the aged financed through Social Security. Medicaid is health care for the needy, financed through federal, state and local welfare funds.

The doctor-delegates adopted a report that called on physicians to explain their bills to the medicare patient and guide the patient in obtaining reimbursal from the government.

Medicare is not a full payment plan and the doctors could eliminate misunderstanding by discussing fees in advance and explaining to the patient how much is covered by medicare, the report said.

"Physicians whose fees exceed those which are customary in their medical area, should explain in advance to patients the effect this will have on medicare payments," the report added.

In another action, the doctors expressed concern over federal attempts to establish standards in the practice of medicine. Behind the action, they said, was a letter from a federal official in the regional medical center program. The letter suggested standardization of medicine across the nation.

There's No Other Place Just Like Schilling Manor

By DOUGLAS KNEELAND

Salina, Kan. — The short, winding streets of Schilling Manor are silent in the early darkness of an autumn evening.

Homework and the chill prairie wind have imprisoned the children in the neat one-story duplexes and small single-family homes of the development two miles west of Salina.

Everywhere are reminders of their presence — an overturned tricycle silhouetted in the gathering gloom, a forgotten football nestled in a patch of brown lawn.

Tired Eyes

Dinner time is near and the lights of the tiny community are beacons of warmth and welcome. But inside the homes, the women, fussing in kitchens, setting tables, urging grimy youngsters to try soap on their hands this time, have tired eyes.

Not the ordinary, workaday tired eyes of too much housework, too active children and a fallen cake in the oven. The tired eyes of absence, responsibility and frequently of a fear painfully unspoken.

For in the streets of Schilling Manor there is no rush of weary husband traffic. And in the houses there is no before-dinner moment for unburdening math problems and football frustrations, no martini ritual to soothe household anxieties.

Husbands In Service

The husbands of Schilling Manor are career servicemen and they are gone — most of them to Vietnam.

After Schilling Air Force Base was deactivated two years ago, the Department of Defense retained the housing area and turned it over to the Army for the use of dependents of men from all the services who must serve unaccompanied tours of duty overseas.

The 735 homes, which have two to four bedrooms, are administered as a subpost of Ft. Riley, an hour's drive to the east. Maj. William C. Coate, the commander, has 33 military men and 47 civilians to take care of the needs of the 624 families of absent servicemen now living in the area.

The families at the post, which are almost 3-to-1 those of enlisted personnel, forfeit their housing allowances, but get free rent, utilities and maintenance services.

Dispensary

Moreover, the post offers a dispensary staffed by three doctors and two dentists, a trained clinical social worker, a post exchange, commissary, theater, swimming pools, tennis courts, a community center and two government-built elementary schools within walking distance.

The availability of free housing and services is not the only attraction of Schilling Manor.

Mrs. Fletcher K. Ware, whose husband, a major who graduated from West Point in 1954, is with the 1st Cavalry Division in Vietnam, explained another.

Not On Outside

"No matter where you go you're on the outside," she said. "We are not (on the outside) here. We all belong to one big purpose. Your neighbor is there at all times to help you.

"You can always cry on her shoulder, but naturally you don't really cry because you know she has the same problem."

Mrs. Albert A. J. Grassi, wife of an Air Force technical sergeant who is stationed in Thailand with the 37th Air Rescue and Recovery Squadron and flies into Vietnam combat areas to help retrieve downed helicopters, echoed the sentiment.

In Too Long

"I wanted to be with women who are in the same situation I'm in," she said. "I've been in the military too long to be out with civilians again. We know here that if we have anything we can't handle there are people who will help us."

A neighbor, Mrs. Carl A. Liggett had another reason.

"My husband thought I'd be better off to come here because I don't speak very good English," she said hesitantly.

Her husband also is with the Air Force in Thailand. A native of Italy, she is among the 35 or 40% of the wives who are foreign-born.

Officials at the base attribute the high percentage to the wives' lack of roots in this country and to their fear of being left in a strange community, particularly if they have language difficulties.

Another Reason

Lt. Col. Roy C. Prince, a career social worker in the Army with a master's degree from Washington University in St. Louis, agreed with all the reasons offered for living in the area, the only one of its type, and suggested another.

"We've only had one killed in action," he said, leaning over to knock for luck on the wooden arm of a visitor's chair. "Some people write their friends and say, 'Come on to Schilling and you're sure your husband will be back.' It has a kind of magic."

Anti-Vietnam war protests, which have racked other communities, have not spread to Salina. For the most part, the rumbles of the distant dissent seem farther from Schilling Manor than the sounds of battle in Vietnam.

'Bunch Of Kooks'

Mrs. Grassi may have spoken for many of the wives when she said:

"We don't like the protest and I think we resent it, but we just think of them as a bunch of kooks. If we thought too much about it, we might all get upset."

The women of Schilling Manor, much like suburban wives everywhere, spend their days in a round of housework, children, wives' clubs, shopping, schools, Cub Scouts, Brownies and Little Leagues.

But in the evenings and on weekends, when they pause over their coffee cups, the lines around their tired eyes grow deeper as they talk of their men and time.

"Just counting the days," Mrs. Grassi murmured, "that's the hardest part. Once we get through Christmas..."

Last British Gls Leave Aden; Last Egyptians Leave Yemen

© New York Times Service

Aden — The last British troops left Aden and the last Egyptian troops left Yemen Wednesday.

The British flew out by helicopter to the carrier Albion just as Sana Radio was announcing unexpectedly, that the rearguard of the Egyptian army in Yemen had embarked from Hodeida. The Egyptians had not been expected to complete their withdrawal until Dec. 15.

Qahtan Al Shaabi, who is expected to be proclaimed president of the new Republic of South Yemen, as Aden has been renamed, was expected to arrive Thursday for a triumphal entry into his country.

The republican governments of Yemen and South Yemen have declared they will eventually unite into a single country.

Unions Talk Of Training Negro Youths

Miami Beach, Fla. (AP) — AFL-CIO construction unions, frequent targets of racial bias charges, proposed Wednesday to help train Negro slum youths for jobs under the federal model cities program.

"We should work with and help train these youths when they apply and show serious intent," said President C. J. Haggerty of the AFL-CIO building and construction trades department.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, who ran into some stiff criticism over current federal proposals to forbid union racial discrimination, said Haggerty's plan might solve the problem if the unions will spell out details and follow through.

"How grand a thing it would be if this could be carried forward so that you took and kept the initiative on this," Wirtz told leaders of the 18 construction unions at their annual convention.

RCA Victor Steals Contract For Philadelphia Orchestra

© New York Times Service

New York — RCA Victor has stolen the Philadelphia Orchestra from Columbia Records in the recording industry's biggest coup since Columbia lured Vladimir Horowitz from RCA five years ago.

Eugene Ormandy, musical director of the Philadelphia Orchestra, said after the five-year contract was signed in Philadelphia that the decision to switch labels was made by the orchestra's trustees.

"I myself have mixed feelings," Ormandy said in a telephone interview, "because of my long association with Columbia and my great admiration for Goddard Lieberson."

Additional Royalties

Lieberson is the president of the CBS-Columbia Group, which includes Columbia Records.

C. Wanton Baylis, Jr., president of the board of the Philadelphia Orchestra Association, estimated that the new contract should mean more than $2 million in royalties to the orchestra in the next five years. "Of course, that all depends upon how well the records sell," he said.

A statement by Clive J. Davis, president of Columbia Records, indicated strongly that a dispute over the repertory that Ormandy had been permitted to record figured heavily in the split.

Unreleased Material

Over a quarter of a century, he said, "We have had the privilege of presenting the orchestra on records in a broad repertory which ranges from baroque through 20th century compositions. During the next three to four years we will be able to complete the cycle of recordings by the Philadelphia Orchestra on Columbia Masterworks from the material we have yet to release."

A source in the recording industry skilled in interpreting corporate communiques said this meant that Columbia was saying that whatever works Ormandy knew, Columbia had recorded. It is believed that in recent years Ormandy has been unhappy at being typed as an expert in the 19th century repertory.

Ormandy said the key factor in the deicison to return to RCA's Red Seal label, on which the orchestra made its first recording 50 years ago, was "the chance for a wider repertory, and especially the potential for wider international distribution offered by RCA."

ONCE TINY, BUT NOW AN EATING BUNDLE

Carrie Ann Smith of Sacramento, Calif., showed how she apparently beat her weight problem by the way in which she helped herself to her first birthday cake. Carrie was born premature and spent her first three months in the hospital. At birth she weighed 24 ounces. Her parents say she is now a 16-pound bundle of energy. At top left, she samples the cake; top right, she finds the cake to her liking and uses both hands to eat; bottom left, she decides to try the candle, and bottom right, she looks at her hands as if to say "Now what do I do with this mess?"

Storms Spread Snow

By United Press International

Autumn was only a memory in much of the nation Wednesday with a storm spreading snow from the southern Rockies to the Great Lakes, heavy snow in parts of the Far West and Northeast, and wintry chill in Dixie.

Utah's Bryce Canyon had 10 inches of snow in 24 hours. Cedar City, Utah, had 7 inches. Southeast Oregon measured up to 8 inches of snow.

The snow championship went to Boonville, N.Y., in the snow belt inland from Lake Ontario, which had 40 inches of snow on the ground, 36 inches of which fell since Monday night.

Georgia Loses Bid For 'General'

Chattanooga, Tenn. (AP)—The state of Georgia lost its bid Wednesday to gain possession of "The General," a little red and black locomotive which chugged its way into Civil War history and a Hollywood movie.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Frank W. Wilson ruled he has no jurisdiction in the dispute between the City of Chattanooga and the state of Georgia.

Arabs Join Unions

Toronto (AP) — Aharon Becker, secretary-general of the million-member Histadrut trade union organization in Israel, says many Arabs in the former Jordanian sector of Jerusalem have joined unions and bettered their living standards. In other conquered territories, he told a Toronto interviewer, Arabs will have to wait until occupation forces leave before joining.

It seems odd that the hard of hearing public has so little understanding of its true needs. Yet, we realize from various types of bait advertising that appears, a great deal of confusion is bound to occur. No batteries—no cords—nothing in the ear—powered by heat of body—no this, no that—NO NOTHING.

Many are selling gadgets without first analyzing one's hearing by standard approved methods.

We, of MAICO, believe in giving a complete analysis, along with an understanding of the problem—and if we recommend our services we acept the full responsibility of helping you use and develop your residual hearing.

Averages Mixed In Stock Market

New York (AP) — More issues rose than fell so the stock market Wednesday could be credited with its sixth straight daily advance, but some averages contradicted this. Trading was active.

Volume was 11.4 million shares compared with 11.04 million Tuesday.

The Dow Jones industrial average, however, took a loss of 1.73 at 883.15.

Damaging to the continued rise of the Dow industrials, Alcoa dropped 3, Du Pont 1¾, International Nickel 1⅛, Union Carbide 1⅝ and Texaco 1⅛.

The broadly based New York Stock Exchange index, however, advanced 2 cents to $52.50.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index dipped .02 to 94.47.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped .2 to 317.0 with industrials off 1.4, rails up 1.0 and utilities off .1.

Eight of the 15 most active stocks advanced, six declined and American Telephone was unchanged at 50¼.

Cancellation Reasons Cut To Two By Part Of Car Insurance Industry

New York (AP)—A big segment of the automobile insurance industry answered widespread complaints Wednesday by cutting to two the reasons for cancelling policies.

Beginning Jan. 1, companies insuring about 40% of the nation's 74 million insured drivers will cancel policies only for nonpayment of premiums or suspension of a driver's license or car registration.

The action came after drivers' complaints about what they considered unwarranted cancellations prompted enactment of new laws and regulations by many states.

Congressional investigators complained that some companies made a practice of penalizing policyholders for accidents regardless of who was to blame.

The National Underwriters Association and the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters said that after Jan. 1 their companies no longer will cancel policies because of use of an automobile in the commission of a felony, repossession of a car by a finance organization, failure to report an accident and a series of serious traffic violations.

The two organizations represent about 400 insurance companies. Other companies are expected to follow their move.

"This will be a step in the right direction," said James L. Bentley Jr., Georgia insurance commissioner and president of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners.

"I think the auto insurance companies have come to realize they're in the same position the auto industry was in a couple of years ago—either they move to re-evaluate their program or they will face more rigid governmental control on both the state and federal level."

Newton I. Steers Jr., Maryland insurance commissioner, called the new program "a highly favorable thing from the point of view of the public."

The new cancellation limits will apply to liability, comprehensive, collision, medical payments and uninsured motorists' insurance.

Under the new program, a company writing a new policy will have 60 days to investigate the risk and verify the information in the application. During this period the company may cancel the policy for any valid underwriting reason. The companies have agreed to provide at least 20 days written notice should they decide not to renew a policy.

California claims to have pioneered the program to limit cancellations through an act adopted by the legislature in 1965.

Previously insurance companies were free to cancel arbitrarily. This produced strong public reaction for regulations. Pressure was brought by racial groups charging discrimination, and by people who felt their reputations had been damaged by having been declared bad risks.

State Insurers Turning To Limited Cancellation

A good number of Nebraska's insured drivers are already protected by limited auto insurance cancellation policies, according to the state insurance director's office.

At least 30% of the auto insurance policies now written in the state are limited cancellation policies, according to Gayle Voller, supervisor of the property and liability division of the state office. A limited cancellation policy is one which the insurance company agrees not to cancel except for very few reasons.

Voller said several large Nebraska auto insurance companies began writing the limited cancellation policies five or six years ago and that smaller companies followed suit.

Two Reasons

The National Underwriters Association and the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters announced Wednesday their members would cut to two the number of reasons for cancelling policies.

Voller said the Nebraska companies haven't cut their cancellation reasons to two as yet, but have been gradually liberalizing from old policies which called for cancellation if, among other things, a policyholder had too many accidents.

State Insurance Director Ben Neff called the national insurance policy statement a "step in the right direction," adding that with time the new policy "will probably have to be extended to the area of renewals which the new statement doesn't mention."

Problems

Neff said there may be some problems in the amount of insurance coverage available as the limited cancellation policy becomes widespread, since companies will be carrying more policies on their rolls.

Voller said the newly announced national policy of limited cancellations will probably increase the number affected to between 30 and 35%.

The limited cancellation policy is just the first of a number of expected changes in the auto insurance business, Neff said. "There are a number of other changes in the mill," he said, adding that many insurance companies are working independently on such proposals.

Eisenhowers Donate Farm, House At Gettysburg As U.S. Historic Site

Washington (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and his wife have donated their farm and house at Gettysburg, Pa., to the United States as a national historic site, the White House announced Wednesday.

The Eisenhowers will continue to occupy their home and use the farm facilities during Gen. Eisenhower's lifetime, but arrangements will be made for authorizing future development of visitor's facilities there for tourists.

Formal transfer of the property to the United States occurred Monday afternoon in a simple ceremony at Gettysburg in which the Eisenhowers and Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall took part.

"This is a significant and valuable historic site and all Americans can be grateful for the generosity of Gen. and Mrs. Eisenhower for their effort to preserve this important part of our national heritage," Udall said.

The Eisenhower farm, including 230 acres, adjoins the Gettysburg National Military Park, site of the famous Civil War battlefield. It was acquired by the Eisenhowers in 1950. They transformed a plain farm house into a modified Georgian two-story brick and stone home, which Eisenhower made a weekend retreat during his later years in the White House.

Many famous world figures have been visitors at the Eisenhower farm, where the former president and his wife, Mamie, have lived since leaving the White House.

Congressional action will be required to authorize the future development of the farm for visitors.

Block Sought To Merger

Omaha (AP) — A suit was filed in Douglas County District Court Wednesday seeking to block the announced consolidation of the Conservative Saving and Loan Association and the Omaha Loan and Building Association, two of Omaha's oldest savings and loan associations.

It was announced earlier Wednesday the two firms, founded in 1891 and 1883 respectively, planned to consolidate Jan. 1 as the Conservative-Omaha Loan Building Association.

The challenge to the action was filed by an attorney representing a Conservative Savings and Loan shareholder, Janet Wintroub, an Omaha laundry owner.

The petition asked an injunction preventing the boards of the two organizations from completing the consolidation.

Assets Questioned

The petition alleges that actual assets of Conservative Savings and Loan are in excess of those shown on regular statements and that the value of each shareholder's interest in the association is worth at least 20% more than the dollar amount shown in the shareholder's passbook.

The two organizations have combined assets exceeding $80 million, exclusive of physical assets.

"CAN EVERY BOY HAVE A CAR AT 16?"

If interested in a newspaper route for your son, call or write the circulation manager of the THE LINCOLN STAR

Perhaps he's saved the money for the car himself. Perhaps he can afford the insurance. Maybe he can even handle the upkeep.

But can he handle the responsibility? One way a boy can start to build this reliability and trust is through day-to-day service as a newspaperboy.

When a boy takes charge of a newspaper route he's going into business for himself. He learns to budget his time, to keep accurate records; he learns the self-confidence that comes through responsibility. And his profits give him a head start on saving for the bigger things.

If your son comes up to you someday and asks if he can have a paper route, don't give him the brush-off. He's showing a little initiative, that just could be the start of a good, sensible driver.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

A X Y D L B A A X R
to L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another in this example. A is used for the three L's X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
